

HEIR IS BORN TO SPANISH THRONE

Queen Victoria, Year-Old Bride of King Alfonso, Safely Delivered of Son, Prince of the Asturias

POPULACE OF MADRID IS WILD WITH JOY

Madrid, May 10.—Queen Victoria gave birth today to a son, who becomes heir to the throne of Spain.

The birth of the royal babe has been awaited with eager interest throughout Spain. The news from the palace early this morning that the accouchement of the queen was imminent spread like wild fire, and crowds flocked to the great plaza front of the royal palace. The happy event had taken the capital somewhat by surprise, for only yesterday afternoon the queen had taken her customary drive and the court physicians had intimated that another two weeks would pass before confinement.

Warning Came in the Night.

It was learned from the palace authorities that the queen had been taken with the first pains of childbirth during the night. Messengers were hastily dispatched to the prime minister and other chief court dignitaries, as the advent of an heir to the throne of Spain is an event of the deepest political significance. Through the early morning ministers and big functionaries arrived at the court of the palace. Meantime word reached the waiting throngs that the queen was progressing well. The doctors pronounced her condition normal and satisfactory.

King Alfonso remained at the queen's bedside.

At 8 o'clock this morning the king cancelled the meeting of the council of ministers, which was to have considered current state affairs. By 10 o'clock the high functionaries of the state and capital, with many ambassadors and ministers, in their court costumes, had reached the palace. At noon this assemblage of the nobility and power of Spain was grouped in the royal apartments set aside for official ceremonies, awaiting with feelings of profound emotion the announcement of the birth of the heir.

Birth Announced; Ceremony Begins.

The birth of the babe occurred at 12:45 p. m. The announcement was immediately conveyed to the waiting officials and crowds outside the palace, who received the glad tidings with mingled feelings of enthusiasm and emotion. That the queen had been blessed with a son—a male heir to the throne—was no less welcome than the happy event itself.

In no monarchical country in the world is the ceremonial observed at the birth of the first offspring of the king and queen so rigidly stately and formal as in Spain, and on this occasion, so significant for the Bourbon dynasty, with an heir to the throne so anxiously awaited, nothing was omitted from the courtly etiquette.

From the moment when Queen Victoria was officially announced to be approaching the period of maternity the most careful surveillance was exercised over her, in order that the hopes of the country should not run any risk of being blighted.

Made Pilgrimage to Shrines.

Several months before her accouchement, according to Spanish royal customs, the queen took up her residence at the palace in Madrid to await the moment. Thence, accompanied by the king, she has undertaken from time to time, pilgrimages to various holy shrines to pray for a safe deliverance, in the same way as the humblest Spanish woman.

For quite a month preceding the auspicious event, members of the proud Spanish nobility have been in constant attendance at the palace as a precaution against the unwelcome surprise of a premature birth, whilst the members of the royal family have taken up their residence either in the palace itself or near at hand in the capital.

Court Functionaries Summoned.

When at length Dr. Glendinning, the young English doctor, who attended the queen, announced that the birth was a matter of only a few hours, urgent messages were dispatched to the prime minister, Senor Maura, and his colleagues of the cabinet, the military governor of Madrid, the members of the diploits of the principal orders of chivalry, the leading military and civil authorities and all the ladies and gentlemen attached to the court.

Soon all the officials were gathered in full uniform and wearing the glittering insignia of their decorations, in the grand reception room gorgeously draped with tapestry, adjoining the royal private apartments, among those present being the American minister, Mr. Collier. There, in suppressed excitement and hushed expectancy they waited, and then all eyes were attracted by a movement of the heavy curtains at the end of the apartment and the opening of the door leading from the royal rooms.

The formal announcement of the birth of the infant was made by Camarara Mayor, mistress of the robes, to Premier Maura, who formally communicated the fact to the distinguished company in these words: "Gentlemen, it is a prince."

Babe Passed Around for Inspection.

The news was greeted with the greatest enthusiasm which swelled into a spontaneous cheer as King Alfonso himself entered, accompanied by the Camarara Mayor, carrying a huge silver tray upon which lay the newly born royal baby, covered with delicate lace garments. The infant lay on the king's side as he entered with his new born son.

The scene was most impressive. Premier Maura at once advanced and with some hesitation relieved the mistress of the robes of her precious load. Then, bearing the tray, the premier proceeded slowly to the center of the room where all present crowded around, anxious to obtain a glimpse of the child, which was presented to one after the other in their order of court precedence. When the curiosity of all those present was satisfied the babe was handed back to the mistress of the robes and by the latter was given to the royal nurse who immediately returned to the queen.

Populace Acclaims New Prince.

As the nurse disappeared into the royal apartments a roar of cheering could be heard on the outside of the palace. In the meantime the scene in the streets outside was almost beyond description. Business had suspended for hours previous to the announcement of the child's birth. An immense multitude gathered in the vicinity of the palace and when the royal standard of red and gold fluttered up to the peak of the flag staff, on the Santa Dedalante, making known that a prince of the Asturias was born a great shout of joy went up from the assembled masses. Immediately afterward a salute of twenty-one guns carried the news to the most remote confines of the city and the inhabitants of the surrounding country. As the sixteenth report resounded (fifteen guns only would have been fired to announce the birth of a girl), the men, women and children waiting in the streets and on balconies and roofs gave voice to their satisfaction and soon the whole city was ringing with cries of "Long Live the Prince," "Long Live the Queen" and "Long Live the King."

Simultaneously the public building blossomed out, as if by magic, with the Spanish colors, and singing, dancing and otherwise rejoicing, almost the entire population of the city began straining in the direction of the palace.

Is Prince of the Asturias.

The son born today to King Alfonso and Queen Victoria will, according to a decree of the Spanish government, bear the title of Prince of the Asturias.

The principality of the Asturias was formerly the mountain refuge of the aboriginal inhabitants of Spain, who remained there unconquered alike by Roman and Moor. In many respects the Asturias is regarded as the cradle of the Spanish monarchy, hence the pride taken in the title of Prince of the Asturias.

Queen Victoria, the mother of the royal infant, was married to King Alfonso at Madrid on May 31, 1906, amid scenes of the greatest splendor, followed by the horror of a bomb explosion which killed scores of people and narrowly missed the royal coach in which their majesties were returning from church.

Much Flub-Dub Necessary.

Considerable etiquette and publicity attend the birth of a royal child at Madrid. King Alfonso, April 3, signed a decree ordering the necessary preparations for the presentation of the child to the high officials of Spain, and the diplomatic representatives accredited at Madrid immediately after the birth. The decree, after naming the various officials and others to be present at the birth, said:

"As soon as the accouchement is announced as imminent all the persons named by the king in the decree shall be notified to come to the palace in full uniform. Immediately after the child is born, the mistress of the robes shall inform the prime minister, who shall then announce to the persons present the sex of the child, at the same time informing the captain general at Madrid and the commander of the royal hatteries, so that they

RELIEVE FAMINE SUFFERERS FOR LAWYER ABE MAY EXTEND TO TEAMSTERS

St. Petersburg, May 10.—The emperor has signed the famine appropriation of $3,000,000, a large amount of which is needed for medical assistance in the scurvy stricken provinces.

M. Yermoloff, ex-minister of agriculture, who is now head of the central organization for famine relief, has left St. Petersburg for the famine provinces to distribute a large personal contribution of the emperor.

More favorable reports of the crop prospects have been received from a correspondent of the Associated Press, who has returned here from a trip to Saratov and South Samara. The present showing of the spring and winter grain is good. A few rainfalls during the coming month would guarantee good crops.

The trade in farm implements which is largely in the hands of American firms, is flourishing in the non-famine regions. Most of the branch houses are sold out and have placed second orders with the American factories.

Tuperto, a peasant member of the group of toils, has been arrested at his home in Podolsk on the charge of engaging in revolutionary agitation.

Meetings addressed by M. Kirilenko, social democrat, and M. Voronoff, member of the left and other deputies have been broken up by the police.

New York, May 10.—One year in state prison and to pay a fine of $500 was the sentence imposed today on Abraham H. Hummel, the lawyer who was convicted of conspiracy in the famous Dodge-Morse divorce case.

Hummel was convicted in the New York state supreme court several months ago but appealed to the appellate division of that court. The decision was affirmed today by the higher court.

Conspiracy to annul the marriage of Charles W. Morse, financier, to Mrs. Charles E. Dodge was the crime of which Hummel was convicted. Mrs. Dodge had secured a divorce from her former husband in 1898. Three years later she was married to Mr. Morse. In 1903 Hummel, as counsel for Dodge, began proceedings to annul the decree of divorce separating Dodge and Mrs. Dodge on the ground that no papers in the case were ever served on Dodge. He was successful and the divorce was set aside, but it was learned subsequently that the papers had been served on Dodge. The decree of divorce was then reaffirmed and Mrs. Dodge again became the wife of Morse.

HEARST HAS WON ALL DESTROY GAMBLING EQUIPMENT

ALONG LINE FOR MAYORALTY But Prosecutor of Orange County Refuses to Do His Duty.

Albany, N. Y., May 10.—The court of appeals today sustained the right of Attorney General Jackson to attack in the name of the people the title of George B. McClellan as mayor of New York City in behalf of William R. Hearst. The Hearst cause has now won in all courts.

The court is unanimous and no opinion is given.

Mr. Jackson's predecessor denied Hearst's application for permission to begin quo warranto proceedings against McClellan. Mr. Jackson tried to reopen the case, but was stopped by an injunction, whereupon he brought action on his own initiative in the name of the people. His right to reverse his predecessor's act was attacked and it was also argued that he had begun this action in defiance of a writ of prohibition.

It is assumed here that the test of McClellan's title will now proceed on its merits.

Paoli, Ind., May 10.—Prosecuting Attorney Perry McCart, of this circuit, has received from Attorney General James Binham papers to be filed before Jacob C. Woner, a justice of the peace for Orangeville township, asking that the French Lick and West Baden gambling paraphernalia be destroyed under the Mattingly law, passed by the last legislature. With this paper is another, a notice to Thomas G. Deery, Edward Charles and John Ballard of the fact that the state is seeking to destroy the stuff. In this notice, the date of June 21, 1907, is set for the hearing.

But these papers have not been filed with the local justice yet, because of the fact that prosecuting attorney McCart refuses to sign them. He takes the position that he will not sign the papers because he was employed in the case by these defendants before he became prosecuting attorney. On this account the whole matter is held up.

So far the militia has not appeared upon the scene and it is hoped that the necessity will not arise for calling upon it.

Vancouver, B. C., May 10.—According to advices by the Canadian-Australian liner Manuka from Sydney, the North German Lloyd steamer Sumatra, recently called at the Sir Charles Hardy group in the South seas and discovered that cannibalism was being carried on to a large extent among the natives of the group. The captain of the Sumatra reported the matter to Dr. Hahl, the German governor of the islands, who dispatched the yacht Zestern to the islands. All the villages were destroyed and the ringleaders, eleven natives, including two women, were arrested.

The prisoners were brought to Herbertshope and imprisoned.

The Sir Charles Hardy islands are a group of coral isles about a hundred miles from the heart of the government at Herbertshope. The natives are said to be the worst cannibals in the South seas.

MOYER DECLARED TO BE EX-CONVICT

Chicago Newspaper Prints Long and Circumstantial Story of Arrest and Conviction for Burglary

MOYER SEEMS ABLE TO PROVE AN ALIBI

Chicago, May 10.—The Journal today prints a long story in which it is alleged that Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, awaiting trial at Boise, Idaho, served as a convict in the penitentiary at Joliet in this state in 1886 and 1887. The date of his discharge is said to have been January 4, 1887.

According to the Journal, Moyer was sentenced from Cook county on February 4, 1886, to serve one year for burglary. The date of his discharge is given as January 4, 1887.

The Joliet Record.

The official record of the Joliet prison in the case is said to be as follows:

Name, Charles H. Moyer.
Number, 7,755.
Sentenced from Cook county, February 4, 1886.
Term, 20 years.
Felon, one year for burglary.
Height, five feet eight inches.
Weight, 155 pounds.
Complexion, medium dark.
Color of eyes, hazel.
Color of hair, dark brown.
Occupation, farm hand, from Iowa.
Discharged January 4, 1887.

At the office of the warden of the Joliet penitentiary it was said that during the dates mentioned by the Journal, a man bearing the name of Charles H. Moyer, was an inmate of the prison. His number was declared to be identical with that given above.

Chicago Police Department Record.

The records of the Chicago police department show the following entries under the date of December 4, 1885, the name of the prisoner being given as C. "S." Moyer in each instance:

C. S. Moyer, alias Fred Baker, burglary; complainant, Ingomar Larson, 721 West Lake street.
John Keating, burglary, the same complainant.
C. S. Moyer, alias Fred Baker, burglary; Sven T. Johnson, 55 Northwestern avenue.
C. S. Moyer, alias Fred Baker, robbery; W. S. Newell, 45 Warren avenue.
C. S. Moyer, alias Fred Baker, robbery; C. E. Murphy, 1533 Michigan avenue.
C. S. Moyer, alias Fred Baker, attempted robbery; Jacob Ekins, No. 20 Walnut street.
C. S. Moyer, alias Fred Baker, carrying concealed weapons; John Hartnett.

Story of the Arrest.

In all the above cases duplicate charges were filed against John Keating, who was said to have been a partner of Moyer in the crimes committed.

The arrests were made on the morning of December 4, 1885, according to the Journal's story, by Patrolman John Hartnett, who is now a lieutenant at the West Lake street police station, and was for a time inspector of police. Hartnett was walking north in Wood street, toward Warren avenue, when he heard men running behind him. He stepped into the shadow of a tree and when the men approached him he stopped them and asked where they were going.

They said they were going home. Hartnett then asked one of the men, who was later identified as Keating, what his name was. Keating replied, "John Kelly."

"What is your name?" asked Hartnett of the other man.

"Fred Baker," was the reply.

The man giving the name of Baker opened his coat as he spoke and Hartnett caught sight of a revolver. He at once struck the man across the face with his club, knocking him senseless. Keating turned and ran, but was brought to a halt by Hartnett's threat to shoot him down if he did not stop.

Marched Them In.

According to the story printed by the Journal, Hartnett waited until the man, who was afterwards declared to be Moyer, recovered his senses and then marched both men to the patrol box at Wood and Madison streets. Here he was joined by Patrolman Thomas Hennessey, who is still connected with the Lake street police station. Here Keating made an attempt to escape, but was recaptured. Both men were then taken to the Lake street police station. There, according to the Journal, Moyer first gave the name of Fred Baker. Keating made no further attempt to conceal his identity and made a full confession of the crimes enumerated above.

The two men were later held to the grand jury in bonds of $5,000 each by Justice O. J. White at the Desplaines street police station.

January 26, 1886, the men were sentenced to Joliet penitentiary. Keating for two years and Moyer for one year. The charge on which the sentence was based was the burglary of Larson's clothing store at 725 West Lake street.

Officer Corroborates Facts.

Lieutenant Hartnett corroborated all of the facts given above and said that he had been told afterward that Moyer declared that had Hartnett been a little slower with his club he would have been killed. Hartnett said today:

"Moyer used to amuse himself in saloons by shooting pool balls into the pockets with his revolver, and he had the general reputation at that time of being a bad man."

John Keating died while a convict in the Joliet penitentiary and one of his brothers, Charles Keating, who is now a prisoner in the county jail, said today:

"We always knew that Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, was the man who was sent to the penitentiary with my brother, Johnnie. I don't remember him myself but he used to go with my sister, and I have often heard my folks speak of him. After Moyer got out of the penitentiary he used to write to a mutual acquaintance, Sam Williams, and Sam used to read the letters to us. One time Sam came over with a paper telling how Charley Moyer had been made the head of the miners' federation."

Says Moyer Ruined Her Son.

Mrs. Keating, the mother of John Keating, today accuses Moyer of being the cause of her son's downfall. She said:

"Charley Moyer left Chicago as soon as he got out of the penitentiary but for a long time he wrote to Sam Williams who lived next door to us and Williams used to read his letters. Williams later went to Missouri and we have not heard from him since he went away."

The Journal also prints a story under the date line of Boone, Ia., which is substantially as follows:

Frank S. Moyer, chief of police of Boone for four years and now a conductor on a street car line here, is a brother of Charles H. Moyer. He said today to a Journal correspondent:

"I heard that Charley got into trouble in Chicago once and was arrested. Probably the less said about it the better. I know that Charley went to Chicago in 1884 or 1885 and was gone about a year and a half. I never heard from him during that time. Later Charley went to Deadwood and then to Denver. I have often heard Charley speak of Sam Williams but I never saw Williams myself."

STORY APPEARS UNTRUE.

Moyer Seems to Be Able to Prove An Alibi for 1886.

Boise, Idaho, May 10.—According to information obtainable here Moyer's record shows he was working for the Castle Creek Gold Mining company at Rockford, S. D., Black Hills during 1886. Moyer says he was never in the

ACREAGE OF WINTER WHEAT MILLIONS SHORT

Government Crop Bulletin Sends the Cereal on Up Grade.

Washington, May 10.—The official crop report issued today at 12:30 p. m. by the department of agriculture, covering the period up to May 1, 1907, was as follows:

The crop reporting board of the bureau of statistics of the department of agriculture, from the reports of the correspondents and agents of the bureau, finds the area under winter wheat remaining in cultivation on May 1 to have been about 28,132,000 acres. This is 11.2 per cent. or about 3,533,000 acres less than the area reported as sown last fall and 5.0 per cent. or about 1,468,000 acres less than the area of winter wheat reported as harvested last year.

The average condition of the growing winter wheat crop of May 1 was 82.9, as compared with 89.9 on April 1, 1907; 90.9 on May 1, 1906; 92.5 on May 1, 1905 and 85.5, the mean of the May averages for the last ten years.

MARKET RISES ON REPORT.

Chicago, May 10.—The government crop report declaring that the area under winter wheat cultivation is about 3,533,000 acres less than reported as sown last fall and 1,468,000 acres less than the area reported as harvested last year caused the price of wheat on the local exchange to advance 1/4c. The market was strong all day and prices were up almost 1c above the close of yesterday when the report was given out. Its effect was partly offset by reports from the southwest declaring that moisture and warmer weather have during the last few days exerted a distinctly favorable influence upon the crop. It was also declared in this report that no extensive damage had been proven, and the government reports showing no remarkably heavy deterioration in any state was taken as showing that the reports of damage by "green bugs" and the army worm have been in a measure over-estimated. A report was received from Minneapolis at the same time of the publication of the crop report to the effect that July wheat had been cornered in that market, this aiding the upturn somewhat.

Within thirty minutes after the publication of the government crop report on the board of trade the price of July wheat advanced from 87 1/4c to 87 3/4c.

Pit traders were slow to grasp the significance of the government figures, but when they did so general buying set in on all sides and the prices advanced strongly and July shortly before 1 o'clock had touched 88 1/4c.

may as promptly as possible give the orders for the proper signals and salutes.

To Give Sign to the People.

"In order that the inhabitants of our glorious city of Madrid may know whether the newly born child is a prince or princess, the Spanish royal standard shall be hoisted over the palace and a salute of 21 guns fired in case it should be a prince of the Asturias, and in the event of the queen giving birth to a princess, a salute of fifteen guns fired and a white flag hoisted. Should the event occur during the night, either a colored lantern or a white light shall be hoisted as the case may be.

"As soon as this has been carried out the child shall be presented to the diplomatic corps and the old personages present by the prime minister, accompanied by the mistress of the robes and the chief court chamberlains.

Certificate Ends Ceremony.

"The minister of justice, as king's notary, will then draw up the certificate of birth and record of the presentation, thus terminating the ceremony.

Reports were circulated alleging disagreement among the queen's medical attendants and the departure from Madrid of Dr. Glendening, the English physician, together with the English nurse, both of whom were found to be unfounded. Both Dr. Glendening and the nurse are acting in perfect harmony with Professor Gutierrez, the Spanish physician, who had charge of the medical attendants at the accouchement.

GIVES JOY IN LONDON.

London, May 10.—The birth of an heir to the Spanish throne was received with unfeigned satisfaction by King Edward and all the royal family here, who received the first news through a newspaper agency. The general public with whom "Princess Ena," the name by which Queen Victoria was known previous to her conversion to Catholicism, was always a prime favorite, were equally pleased. The Spanish embassy was besieged with callers soon after the announcement of the birth of the royal child.

NEW PANEL OF ONE HUNDRED.

Trial of Haywood at Boise Halted While Sheriff Rusties.

Boise, Idaho, May 10.—Sheriff "Shad" Hodgins started out today to summon a special venire of 100 men ordered yesterday by Judge Wood of the district court, when the regular term panel was exhausted in the effort to secure a jury to try William D. Haywood, the first of the officers of the Western Federation of Miners, called to the bar to answer the charge the state has placed against them, of conspiracy and complicity in the murder of former Governor Frank Steunenberg.

The trial was adjourned last yesterday afternoon until 2 o'clock this afternoon when it is expected the new panel will be in attendance. Counsel on both sides of the case were confident today that a jury would be secured by Thursday or Friday of next week at the latest and they believe that the taking of testimony may be begun before the week ends. The task of summoning 100 men in this big county is by no means an easy one and the sheriff expects to be busy until the last minute allowed by court. An effort has been made to confine the personnel of the new panel to a radius of ten miles from Boise, thus making the work outlined for Sheriff "Shad," as he is known here, a trifle less arduous.

What Idaho Law Requires.

The laws of Idaho require that there shall be twelve takers in the jury box at all times during the selection of a trial panel and it was this provision of the statutes which caused the halt yesterday afternoon after three men had been passed without challenge for cause from either side, although there were eight others in the box, awaiting cross-examination by the attorneys for the defense. Seat number four was vacant and until a JURY QUALIFIES FOR THAT POSITION THE EXAMINATION OF THE OTHERS CANNOT PROCEED.

Under the system of jury examination in vogue here it is impossible to tell at any time what real progress has been made. Twelve chairs, high revolving affairs, with high backs, placed in rows of six directly in front of and below the judge's bench, will first be filled with men who have passed the searching examination of the prosecution and defense without a challenge for cause, such as bias, expressed or implied. Then each side has the right to exercise ten peremptory challenges.

Most Seem Eager to Sit.

All of those connected with the case were somewhat surprised yesterday at the absence of an eagerness on the part of the veniremen to avoid jury service. But a small percentage of the twenty-one men examined had expressed or formed an opinion sufficient to disqualify them and the others declared they believe they could render an absolutely fair and impartial verdict from evidence adduced and allowed by the court. The proceedings went forward with all the calm and dispatch of the ordinary murder trial in any community. In this connection there is an evident desire here on the part of both sides to vie with one another in the expression of a feeling of good will and a sentiment of absolute fair play. The spirit of conciliation everywhere apparent and the desire of all parties immediately concerned with the trial to prevent any untoward incident of any nature whatsoever is amply illustrated by the action of the leaders of the Western Federation of Miners in frowning down and finally defeating altogether the plan of the more radical members of the organization to hold the annual congress set for June 10 in Boise, rather than in Denver, the headquarters. The radical element was insistent on coming to Boise.

Counsel for the prisoners, when they heard of this move, counseled with the more conservative and were quickly assured by them that the proposition to hold the meeting in Boise would not be countenanced.

Labor Leaders More Reassured.

It was said by a man active in the management of the affairs of the federation today that the rank and file of the federation were at last convinced that there was to be no secret hearing, or "railroading" of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone to the scaffold and there was now a disposition to let the matter be thoroughly threshed out in the courts, everything possible being done legitimately to aid the imprisoned men in their fight for freedom. The prisoners seem to have every confidence as to their future and believe their counsel will be able to clear them. It is the often expressed desire of the prisoners and their attorneys that there shall be no outside interference, either from their own ranks or any other source.

Boise continues as quiet and placid as ever. The people are continuing about their business and social affairs with nothing whatever to indicate that this is the center of interest in a history-making trial. Members of the federation of miners are conspicuous by their absence, only those having business here being in evidence. Moyer continues as president and Haywood as secretary and treasurer of the organization, which claims to have 32,000 members in good standing today and it is necessary for the agents who are acting for them to come here and discuss the affairs of the organization from time to time. A staggering array of witnesses is promised by both sides in the Haywood case and if all whose names are announced are called to the stand, the duration of the trial cannot even be approximated. Appearing on the indictment of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone, as well as for the state, are fourteen names.

Many Witnesses to Be Examined.

State's counsel yesterday filed a supplemental list of 151 witnesses, making 165 in all. The defense, it is announced, will call perhaps fifty witnesses in all, making 215 to be heard, according to present plans. It is considered as doubtful, however, that any such number will be placed on the stand. The federation officials were interested today to discover the names of several former officials and members of their organization included in the list of the state's prospective witnesses. One of these is Edward Boyce, formerly president of the Western Federation. Boyce is now a mine owner and lives in Colorado. The witness list includes a large number of persons from Caldwell, who arrived on the scene immediately following the tragedy. They and the coroner and other county officials are expected to be the first to take the stand. Other than these witnesses and the detectives employed to gather evidence, the announced witnesses include Harry Orchard, who is alleged to have made a confession admitting that he placed the bomb which destroyed Governor Steunenberg; persons who say they saw Orchard near the Steunenberg home the night of the murder; Angus Sutherland, formerly sheriff of Shoshone county, who served the warrant on Steve Adams, accused of the murder of Fred Tyler; several former state officials of Colorado, including former Governor Peabody and others who testified at the preliminary hearing given Orchard.

COURT DECIDES BENFER IS DANGEROUS TO BE FREE

Says He is of Unsound Mind and Places Him in Sheriff's Care.

Upon the application of his wife Albert Benfer, who made a murderous attack upon Dr. Lyman T. Rawles at Hantertown on the evening of April 15, was declared of unsound mind by Judge O'Rourke in the circuit court this morning, declared to be a dangerous man to be at large and placed in the custody of Sheriff Grice.

At the same time Dr. Rawles filed an affidavit charging him with assault and battery with intent to commit murder and this was duly entered upon the docket. The decision of the court today has no bearing upon the mental condition of Benfer at the time of the attack and he will be tried later for the crime. A special plea of insanity will probably be entered at the time of the trial and the jury will then pass upon his sanity when the shooting occurred.

During the hearing Benfer sat with his head upon his hand or rested it upon the table in front of him and apparently took no interest in what was going on. His wife and a number of other witnesses took the stand and declared that in their opinion he is a man of unsound mind. Judge O'Rourke fixed his bond under the criminal proceeding at $1,000.

Cox Receives $20.

Arthur Cox, one of the witnesses against John Kennedy and Charles Laughlin, was allowed $20 by Judge O'Rourke in the circuit court this morning upon an affidavit that he had been confined in jail for eight months and that his condition upon his release was such that he could not go to work at once. The money was given to him to pay his expenses until he can obtain employment.

Improvement Ordered.

In the commissioners' court an order was entered declaring that the voters of Maumee township had decided in favor of the construction of about twelve miles of stone road and ordering the improvement made. The date for receiving bids was fixed for June 4.

Appointments Made.

Judge O'Rourke today appointed Jacob M. Stouder a member of the board of children's guardians to succeed himself, his term having expired. Mrs. Maria B. Garline, who has been for a number of years a member of the board, was succeeded by Mrs. Mary G. Keil.

Becksteins in Court.

Hulda C. and J. G. Beckstein, in the presence of two attractive little daughters, spent the day in the superior court in their second divorce fight. Judge Heaton having refused at one time to grant her a decree, which he resisted. Mrs. Beckstein is a thrifty woman of most excellent reputation and the husband is a working man, a good provider and not addicted to any bad habits, but for some reason there has been constant bickering in the household and they do not seem to be able to live together. Their troubles as outlined in the evidence are not serious. The wife filed her complaint asking a divorce and the husband responded with a cross-complaint.

Court Notes.

Minnie M. Miller was granted a divorce in the circuit court from Edward E. Miller and allowed to resume her maiden name of Branner. Diederick F. Stelling has applied for a restraining order to prevent William Franko, Jr., and Henry Franko from building a fence that he claims will injure his property.

OUTSIDE DISTRICTS SHOW BUT SLIGHT GAINS IN CENSUS

Total School Population of Allen County is Now 26,422.

Completion of the enumeration shows that there are a total of 26,422 persons of school age in Allen County. While this is a gain of 668 over the figures of a year ago, all but 42 of this gain is inside the city of Fort Wayne. In the townships the net gain is but 3 over the count in 1906.

Wayne and Washington townships made the greatest gain, Washington having 34 more children of school age than a year ago, and Wayne making a gain of 50. The result of the enumeration by townships is as follows: Abbeite, 315; Adams, 811; Cedar Creek, 550; El River, 404; Jackson, 400; Jefferson, 508; Lafayette, 424; Lake, 357; Madison, 400; Marion, 458; Maumee, 346; Milan, 480; Noyes, 390; Perry, 361; Pleasant, 495; St. Joseph, 561; Scripps, 118; Springfield, 446; Washington, 571; Wayne, 728.

In the incorporated towns, Monroeville has 232, a gain of 17; New Haven has 208, a gain of 24; and Shirley City has 95, a loss of 2. There are 119 colored school children in the county.

RAILROADS TO TEST NEW FULL CREW ENACTMENT

Pennsylvania Road to Give Answer to Charge of Violations.

Indianapolis, May 10.—An affidavit on information, sworn to by Leon E. Morton, clerk of the railroad commission, was filed in the Marion county criminal court today, charging the Pennsylvania railroad with having violated the full crew law, passed by the last legislature. This step was taken by Martin Hugg, special counsel, retained by the railroad commission to take through to the supreme court of the United States the question as to the constitutionality of the full crew law. The details of affidavit were agreed on between the railroad commission and the railroads in the state. At a conference the railroads decided that the affidavit should be filed against the Pennsylvania. A similar affidavit will be filed against the Wabash railroad at Lafayette later. This was part of the agreement.

Sabbath School Rally Opens at First Presbyterian Church.

Stimulation of interest in the Sabbath school and more effective methods in Sabbath school work are the purposes aimed at in the Sabbath school rally which opened this afternoon at the First Presbyterian church.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Worden, of Philadelphia, superintendent of Sabbath school training of the Presbyterian church, is conducting the conference in the absence of Rev. Dr. Henry, who was announced to be present. Rev. Dr. Henry is recovering from an attack of illness, but is unable to travel as yet and found it impossible to reach Fort Wayne. Dr. Worden is taking the numbers on the program which had been assigned to his colleague in the work.

The rally is held under the direction of the pastors and superintendents of the four Presbyterian Sunday schools of the city, and E. R. Yarnelle presided at the opening session. The attendance was fair and the interest marked. Associated with Dr. Worden on the program are the pastors and superintendents of the local Sunday schools, as well as Rev. I. N. Houser, of Logansport, synodical superintendent of Sunday schools in Indiana; Rev. Dr. S. R. Ferguson, of Cedar Rapids, synodical superintendent of Iowa Sunday schools, and R. F. Sulzer, of Minneapolis, the synodical superintendent for Minnesota. The convention will continue this evening with an interesting program.

Surviving relatives include the wife, one son, B. F. Eick, former deputy sheriff and now a grocer in this city and two daughters, Mrs. Bernard Papenbrock and Mrs. Peter Roszkurn of Jackson township. There is also one sister, Mrs. Holstad, of Cincinnati, and a brother F. H. Eick of Martin's Ferry, Ohio.

GOOD ORDER IN SAN FRANCISCO UPTO THE POLICE

Street Crowds Are Kept Under Control.

San Francisco, May 10.—Despite the efforts of the citizens' committee, the settlement of the street railroad strike seems as far off as ever. The United Railroad officials decline positively to recognize the Car Men's union on the ground that it went out of existence when the company discharged its employees for disobeying the order to appear for work at the car barns on Tuesday morning last. This position taken by the company acts as a handicap in any efforts to bring about a settlement, the only answer received from the officials being that they have nothing to arbitrate and that they propose to run their cars.

Mob Only Howled and Jeered. Two cars were run yesterday with more success, under protection of the police. The mob was in evidence all along the route taken by the cars, but outside of howls and jeering there was no disorder and any attempts to block the road were promptly stopped by the police escort.

The appearance of the cars was greeted with manifestations of approval by the better element along the route taken and the motormen on the cars were showered with flowers and heartily cheered as they passed.

This morning another attempt was made to operate the system and just as many cars were sent out as the police would guarantee to protect, but until adequate protection can be given by the municipal authorities the complete resumption of street car traffic is impossible.

The newly appointed executive committee of fifty met this morning to make its report on the definite plan of action they would recommend for the settlement of the existing industrial troubles.

The reports that the builders and plumbers were about to intervene and strike in sympathy with the labor unions now out is vigorously denied. The plumbers' union denies the rumors now in circulation to that effect and declares that they are in perfect harmony with their employers.

Will Be No Building Trades Strike.

Last night the building trades council adopted a resolution denying as false the reports of a strike on June 1 and also urged the miscellaneous trades now engaged in the industrial struggle to get together and work for the peace of the city.

The police are now showing its ability to fully cope with the difficulty and the only question is as to the force required to cover the disturbed area, whether it is numerically strong enough.

Increasing Number of Cars.

Active preparations at the car barns at Turk and Fillmore, and at Oak and Broderick today, indicated the purpose of the company to increase the number of cars sent out on its lines today. Eight policemen in charge of Captain Mooney maintained guard at the Fillmore street car shed and kept the crowd in check. An agitator was arrested by Captain Mooney for circulating handbills calling upon District Attorney Langdon to cause the arrest of Patrick Calhoun for conspiracy to murder.

GEORGE H. WILSON SERIOUSLY ILL.

Condition Offers Little Hope That He Will Recover From Attack.

George H. Wilson, a pioneer merchant here and later a member of the board of public safety, is critically ill at his home on West Berry street of the infirmities incident to a recent attack of grip and acute indigestion and his advanced years. He has displayed wonderful vitality and was holding his own this afternoon but little hope of his recovery is expressed by the members of the family.

OHIO CITIES WILL GET FLOOD TIPS FROM FORT WAYNE

Weather Bureau to Place a River Gauge in the Maumee.

In order to get advance information regarding the floods that occasionally sweep down the Maumee river in the winter and spring season, the state of Ohio is preparing to place a gauge in the Maumee river in this city. This will register the stage of water at all times, and when the waters approach the danger point news of the rise will be telegraphed to the Ohio weather bureau.

The work is in charge of J. Warren Smith, section director of the Ohio division of the United States weather bureau, who arrived in the city this morning to arrange for installing the gauge, which will be in position within the next six weeks. Mr. Smith has appointed City Engineer F. M. Randall to have general supervision of the reports from Fort Wayne, and Mr. Randall will have the reading made at frequent intervals during the flood season, and telegraphed to Ohio points.

Mr. Smith explained that the gauge was being installed for the especial benefit of residents of Defiance, Napoleon, Toledo and other Ohio cities along the Maumee. It will be located at the eastern end of the Columbia street bridge, practically at the point where the Maumee has its origin in the confluence of the St. Mary's and the St. Joseph rivers, and the gauge will be open in order that all may read the stage of water.

About sixty members of the company will participate in the drill.

MURDER OF EX-GOV. FRANK STEUNENBURG

History of Crime With Which Moyer and Haywood Are Charged and Something of the Personality of the Chief Figures in Now World-Noted Case.

Boise, Idaho, May 10.—Former Governor Frank Steunenburg was blown to pieces by a bomb as he was entering the gate of his home at Caldwell on the evening of Dec. 24, 1905. A string had been attached to the gate, and as Mr. Steunenburg opened the gate it set off the bomb. As soon as the news of the murder reached Boise that evening Governor Gooding went to Caldwell by special train and took charge of the efforts to capture the assassin. The town was patrolled and no one was permitted to enter or leave without giving a full and satisfactory account of himself.

In the roundup several suspicious characters were gathered in. Among them was Harry Orchard, whose story of his movements in Caldwell and his reason for being there at all were so suspicious that he was held under the charge of being implicated in the murder. Orchard was a member of the Western Federation of Miners. Steve Adams, another member of the organization, also was arrested. Simpkins, a third member, was implicated, but got away and never has been arrested.

In behalf of the state Governor Gooding offered a reward of $10,000 for the arrest and conviction of the murderers. The Steunenburg family added $5,000 and Canon county increased the amount. Pinkerton detectives, attracted by the rewards, took up the case and James McPartland, famous as the man who ran down the Molly Maguires in Pennsylvania thirty years ago, took charge of the work for them. McPartland finally got from Harry Orchard a confession in which Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone were implicated in the assassination of Governor Steunenburg.

Orchard's Confession a Mystery. The details of this confession never have been made public, but it is known that Orchard charged the federal leaders with planning and belonging about a terrible list of crimes. Orchard admitted that he had placed the bomb that killed Steunenburg, and declared that it had been made by Pettibone. According to him, Moyer and Haywood selected the victims and planned the crimes, Pettibone furnished the explosives and he and others did the actual bloody work.

What corroboration of the story the prosecution has is kept close, but it is asserted that there is a great deal of it. Steve Adams also confessed, but subsequently recanted. Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone were all in Denver when this Orchard story was told. The Idaho authorities submitted the evidence then in their possession to Governor McDonald, of Colorado, who granted a warrant of extradition on Governor Gooding's request.

Labor of Nation Aided. Defense. The men were arrested on a Saturday night and before any legal steps could be taken in their behalf to thwart their extradition they were brought into Idaho on a special train. From that day to this their friends among the labor men have never ceased to charge that they were kidnapped, although the supreme court of the United States sustained the procedure.

The Western Federation of Miners at once took up the cause of its leaders and organized labor generally throughout the country has taken similar action. Money in large sums has been subscribed to meet the expenses of their defense and in every way labor has formally made its own the cause of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone. Thus it has come about that the struggle which begins tomorrow is really a test of strength between the forces of law and order in Idaho on one side and organized labor on the other.

Personality of the Prisoners. Of the three defendants Haywood makes the best impression on first acquaintance. He is a big, sturdy fellow, with a square head and solid jaw. He has lost the sight of his right eye and has developed a curious trick of turning his face away as if to conceal his misfortune and rolling his left eye around to keep track of what is going on. It gives him a queer, furtive expression not at all in keeping with his straightforward manner when personally addressed. Haywood is a socialist and an idealist. He is fond of reading and devotes much of his time to that, making it both recreation and study. His friends say that, although he is deeply concerned in making the most vigorous fight possible to escape conviction, he has not lost sight of the fact that the death penalty in this case would make him a martyr of organized labor.

But Moyer and Pettibone find no such compensation in their situation. They are both more practical men, desperately intent on making a winning defense. Moyer was the brains of the western federation and its chief organizer; he is a labor leader type, always extremely popular with the regular labor union men. He makes a fiery speech and carries his audience with him. He has the reputation of being the best man on his feet in the rank of organized labor today.

Pettibone Weakest of Trio. Pettibone, in appearance, fits the description reported to have been given to him by Harry Orchard. He is a slight man, below the average height, with a weak chin and the good natured grin that goes with it.

When the three defendants were seen in the county jail Wednesday Haywood had just come down from the court room, where he had listened to the adverse ruling of Judge Wood. In court he was nervous and had difficulty in maintaining an outward show of composure. He seldom faced the judge, but continually rolled his left eye toward the bench while seeming to look the other way. But in his cell he was a different man. He had nothing to say about his case, of course, but maintained a lively interest in what was going on outside and particularly in the effect of the "undesirable citizen" expression of the president. Pettibone was busy at his favorite amusement, pyrography. He had a lot of specimens of his work and one which afforded him no little amusement. It was a big piece of leather on which he had burned the motto, "So live that every day you can look every man in the face and tell him to go to h—."

Signs Himself "The Goat." The signature Pettibone has adopted for his artistic efforts in the burned wood and leather line is a goat. He signs all his work with that symbol, and there is an irresistible suggestion of appropriateness about it, for Pettibone is not in the class with Moyer and Haywood. He is the sort of man found in all small towns, the good natured, handy man who can do a job of tinkering, carpentry, painting—general all around useful genius in the small way mechanical line.

Moyer was walking in the jail yard when seen yesterday, taking a constitutional under the eye of a carelessly watchful guard, who kept twenty or thirty yards away and seemed not to be interested in the least in what was being done, but never lost a movement Moyer made. Moyer is a tall, dark man, with a narrow face and small, deep set eyes and high, long nose. His long lower jaw ends in a sharply pointed chin, and altogether his face gives the impression of incisiveness, which accords with his reputation.

"There is nothing that I want to say or could say about the case," he said, "except this: All we want is a fair trial, without prejudice on either side. It's a square deal that we are asking for and that is all, and I think that is what the country generally wishes us to have. That is what all fair minded men everywhere wish."

Judge Wood Equal to Task. If they had picked the man to give them this square deal from among a host of judges the indicted men could hardly have found a better one than Judge Wood. The more slight of the man conveys inevitably a feeling of care. He radiates the square deal. To begin with, he bulks big. He has a massive head, solidly set on broad, square shoulders that top a powerful body. His eyes are keen and kindly, and have the twinkle in them that shows he knows how to laugh. They look out under a prominent brow and high forehead, and convey insistently an air of serenity and composure and strength that promises well for the evenness of justice in his court and for the preservation of dignity at all times.

Judge Wood is a downeast Yankee, who came to Idaho fifteen years or more ago and has made himself prominent among the lawyers of the state. He is not much over 40 years of age. His good humor came out strongly yesterday morning when he excused for the term a veneman who offered as his excuse the fact that he is an officer of the gun club and had to be present at the shooting match going on for the rest of the week.

Men Who Will Prosecute. Naturally the prosecution is in the hands of O. W. Vandine, the prosecuting attorney of Crayon county, where a crime was committed. He has had the main part of the case, but the actual trial work will be handled by Senator Borah and James Hawley, who have been specially retained by the state. Both these men have made reputations for themselves in criminal practice here, but in recent years Senator Borah has confined his practice to the civil courts. Hawley is rated as the best criminal lawyer in the state. He defended the striking miners in the Coeur d'Alene cases, when Borah was prosecuting, and got his men off. Borah is a Kansas man, but Hawley is a native son of Idaho.

Both Sides Well Financed. For the defense the senior counsel is Clarence Darrow, the lawyer from Chicago who makes a specialty of labor cases and was at the head of the array of legal assistants for the United Mine Workers in the anthracite strike arbitration proceedings. He is assisted principally by Frank H. Richardson, of Denver, a Yankee from Massachusetts, who has been in the west long enough to count almost as a native son. Richardson has been counsel for the Western Federation of Miners in its Colorado fights and has a great reputation throughout the west as a successful criminal lawyer.

The state has made extensive financial provision for the case, although not as much money has been appropriated thus far as the defendants are reported to have secured from their labor organization friends. At the last session of the legislature $50,000 was appropriated to take up deficiency warrants that had been issued to meet expenses already incurred and an additional $52,000 was appropriated to meet future expense.

It is pointed out here in Boise as an evidence of the size of the fund at the disposal of the defendants that they are running a daily paper, the Idaho Unionist, devoted to their cause. This paper is ostensibly printed as the organ of the Idaho unions, but the Boise organizations have advertised in a local newspaper that they have nothing to do with it.

THE PAVING CONTRACTS.

If the contracts for this year's street paving in Fort Wayne are awarded by the board of works on the merits of figures, the work will be done by the Cleveland Trinidad Paving company. That company submitted much the lowest figures in the bidding Thursday night.

Before the work is begun we would like to urge upon the board that it protect the city from unnecessary inconvenience and annoyance by insisting that the work be done with all diligence and that no excavation of streets be permitted until the material for that work is in sight. It has been the experience of Fort Wayne in a good many cases that contractors went ahead with excavations and put streets out of commission and allowed work for long periods to stand still until material could be brought in. Frequently the concrete has been put down and then work suspended because asphalt could not be readily procured. Of course allowance should reasonably be made in the case of unlooked-for exigencies. Unexpected and unavoidable delays will be met with now and then. But for the most part the delivery of materials can be arranged for with such certainty as will prevent long unnecessary delays after work has once been started and streets closed to traffic.

Heretofore we have suggested that the board require paving concerns to give some sort of indemnity bond against unnecessary tardiness in completing work after it is once begun. That would not entirely remedy the evil, but it would have a salutary effect in that direction.

AFTER HARVESTER TRUST.

Attorney General Bonaparte on Wednesday authorized the announcement that action would soon be taken in regard to complaints against the great Harvester trust. No details were given out, but this is interpreted to be notice of early suits against the International Harvester company for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. Senate document No. 335 contains a letter from A. C. Wilkinson, of Philadelphia, in which he says:

"The International Harvester company is a New Jersey corporation formed in the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., in August, 1902, upon plans and specifications laid down by George D. Perkins. * * * Before the combination the dealers bought harvesting machinery from twelve companies in competition.

"The Harvester Trust took at one time five of the largest of these companies out of the competitive field, gathered in three more a little later, and then when the Keystone company began to cut a figure in the harvesting machine business removed it also by absorption. So the trust captured nine companies, and claimed in its advertisements to be doing ninety per cent of the harvesting machine business."

The harvester trust is one of the newest of the great national combines, but since the consolidation of the several big concerns of which it is comprised it has exercised as close control of the harvester business as Standard oil has of petroleum and its products. The forthcoming suit will be of intense direct interest to every farmer in the country.

Illinois legislature acclaimed Uncle Joe Cannon as next president of the United States a few days ago, whereat news leaps from Washington that Nunk Joie may consider himself fairly in luck to hold his job as speaker of the national house of representatives. Anybody with an idea that politics isn't being run from the white house is carrying useless weight of luggage.

Thoughts of Maying and swelling buds and warbling birds and shooting things of green are all right in the abstract, but they're so far quite out of season. Save up, save up, ye rapturous and ecstatic. Will be some real spring along after awhile.

Fort Wayne has begun to try on her Grand Army encampment slayer. She looks good to herself and all others. Everybody should fall in with a willing hand and help the pretty lady to complete her fete-day toilet.

The ease with which the whole state of Ohio has fallen into line for Taft furnishes an inspiring example to other states that may yet be in doubt.

THAWS TO UNITE TO AID HARRY

Seek Peace in Family for Concerted Effort to Save His Life.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 10.--The relatives of Harry Kendall Thaw, for the first time thoroughly convinced that he is in dire jeopardy, have decided to sink their personal quarrels and make a united effort to save the life of the prisoner.

Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, wife of Harry Thaw, arrived in Pittsburg Wednesday morning and is a guest at Lyndhurst, the home of Mrs. William Thaw. During her stay here she will call upon her mother, Mrs. Charles J. Holman, of Brookline, and try to effect a reconciliation. It is expected that the aid of Mrs. Holman will be actively enlisted in behalf of Thaw at his second trial.

It is learned from a friend of the family that Mrs. William Thaw will accompany Evelyn when she visits her mother. Mrs. Holman has felt keenly not only her daughter's conduct toward her, but also that of the Thaw family, so the elder Mrs. Thaw will also bear an olive branch.

ARRESTED AS SAFE-BLOWER.

Man Believed to Be Walter Wilson is Held in Colorado.

Denver, Col., May 10.--A man believed to be Walter Wilson, wanted in Oklahoma on the charge of having been implicated in a bank robbery at Tecumseh, Okla., was arrested by deputy sheriffs here yesterday. Letters were found upon him from men in jail at Tecumseh who were captured at the time of the robbery after a fight with officers. Wilson has many aliases, among them "Doc West," an assumed name said to be well known among safe-blowers of the west. The man under arrest here strenuously denies that he is Wilson or that he was in any way connected with the bank robbery at Tecumseh. The letters taken from him were acknowledgments of the receipt of money sent to the men in prison in Tecumseh.

Superfluous Hair

Removed by the New Principle

DeMiracle

A revelation to Modern Science. It is the only scientific and practical way to destroy hair. It is better than electricity because it does not scar or produce a new growth, better than X-ray because it does not burn, scar or paralyze the tissue under the scalp; better than depilatories because it is not poisonous, therefore, it will not cause blood poisoning or produce eczema, which is so common with depilatories, nor does it break off the hair, thereby increasing its growth. Don't waste time experimenting with electrolysis, X-ray and depilatories. These are offered you on the BLAISE WORLD of the operators and manufacturers. The miracle is not. It is the only method which is endorsed by physicians, surgeons, dermatologists, medical journals and prominent magazines. DeMiracle mailed, sealed in plain wrapper, on receipt of $1.00. All that is claimed for it. Booklet sent free in plain, sealed envelope upon request. Write for it to day to DE MIRACLE CHEMICAL CO., 1912 Park Avenue, New York. CLEVELAND COMPANY IS WINNER OF PAVING AWARDS

Gets All Asphalt Work Except Berry Street—The Figures.

In the bidding for asphalt paving in Fort Wayne before the board of public works last night the Cleveland Trinidad Asphalt company secured contracts for the work on Creighton avenue from Lafayette to Hanna, Gay street from Lewis to Colerick, Superior street from Wells to Jackson, Union street from Main to Wayne and conditionally on Washington boulevard from Harmer street to Glasgow avenue.

The company has been trying for two years to get into Fort Wayne, but the Barber Asphalt company has beat it out continually by offering to do the work cheaper and from the fact that it has a local plant and is able to handle the paving expeditiously. The Barber people got the resurfacing of Berry street from Calhoun to Fairfield avenue.

The contract on Dock street, between Clinton and Barr, was held up for the reason that extras are included in the two bids submitted and the board desires to consider them carefully. Competition all along the line was strong and representatives of the various interests did some hustling.

The bids on Paving.
Creighton avenue, from Lafayette to Hanna—Barber company, $5.47 per linear foot; Cleveland Trinidad Asphalt company, $8.03; Western Construction company, $8.20.

Gay street, from Lewis to Hayden and from Wallace to Colerick—Western Construction company, $5.29; Barber company, $5.50; Cleveland company, $5.14.

Superior street, from Wells to Jackson—Cleveland company, $5.20; Barber company, $5.60; Western Construction company, $5.50.

Union street, from Main to Wayne—Cleveland company, $5.27; Western company, $5.42; Barber company, $5.55.

Resurfacing Berry street, from Calhoun to Harrison—Barber company, $7.50; Western company, $7.68; Cleveland company, $7.52.

Berry street, from Harrison to Fairfield avenue—Cleveland company, $6.08; Western company, $6.93; Barber company, $5.85.

Berry street was awarded to the Barber Asphalt company and all the others went to the Cleveland company.

Washington boulevard, from Harmer street to Glasgow avenue—Barber company, $9.46; Western company, $9.25; Cleveland company, $9.01.

The bids on Washington boulevard were regarded as excessive and the award was made with the understanding that the total cost shall not exceed the engineer's estimate. The Dock street bids are as follows:

Meiellering Construction company, Metropolitan block, $1.59 1/2 per square yard; Derheimer & Co., Logan block, $1.94 1/2; Metropolitan block, $1.98.

The six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Joy, of East Lewis street, was struck by a car Thursday afternoon while playing in the street. She was knocked down and thrown to one side by the fender. Her face was slightly bruised, but she was not otherwise seriously injured.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

New Atlas of Allen County Now on Sale.

The Allen County Map Co., of this city, has just issued its new plat book of the county. The book is handsomely bound in cloth and all maps are printed on heavy linen lined paper and is a masterpiece of the map printer's art. There is a map of the entire county in the front part of the book and after that comes individual maps of each of the twenty townships of the county, each township having an entire large page to itself. In the back part of the book is a fine map of the state of Indiana and one of the United States. The township maps show each resident farm together with the number of acres owned, all driving roads, electric lines, railroads, etc. It is the most complete atlas of the kind ever issued and a necessity, the want of which has long been felt by every business man in Allen county. This company, in addition to the atlas, has also issued a large wall map of the county, containing all the same information for use in schools and public places. The atlas and wall maps can be obtained from the representative of the company, Mr. T. L. Fisher, of 128 W. Jefferson St. or at the office of the county surveyor.

What a Whirlwind Campaign Really Is.

One fine morning about six weeks ago the city of Indianapolis woke up to the needs of both the Y. M. and Y. W. associations in that community, and great indeed was the awakening thereof. Evidently the fields were white for the harvest, the generous, humane people of Indianapolis, they who love their fellowmen regardless of sex, sect or creed, arose in their might as with one impulse; committees of business men and busy women were formed, the city was divided into districts and a house to house canvass made; for the time being the workers gave up in large measure their business and their household cares, hasty luncheons were dispatched downtown because nobody had time to go home to eat; lawyers, doctors, bankers, merchants, men and women of affairs, hurried in and out of association headquarters morning, afternoon and night. And the result of all this activity? Well, one night within ten days' time of the beginning of the hurricane, the Y. M. C. A. books were closed with a new entry on the credit side of $273,000. The next morning the Y. W. C. A. campaign was opened, the same tactics were pursued by the same workers, men and women alike, in even shorter time nearly $150,000 were at the disposal of the building committee, although $125,000 was the limit of the sum asked for at the outset, but by this time the difficulty was not to start the torrent but to stem it. Contributions had come rolling in varying in amount all the way from $1 to $10,000, the givers varying in resources all the way from the factory girl to the multi-millionaire.

And now to think that this same cyclone has struck Fort Wayne, with somewhat abated velocity perhaps but not the tail end of the big blow—perhaps the thought. No, Fort Wayne, too, is awakening and a new association building is bound to come. The winds and the waves have conspired; the waters of generosity are stirred, and nothing now can stop the rising tide.

This fund today was increased by the subscription of Beadell & Co. in the sum of $500, and the total is now more than $14,000. A. A. L.

ACID IN THE BLOOD.

A well-known authority on Rheumatism gives the following valuable yet simple and harmless prescription, which any one can easily prepare at home:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Mix by shaking well in a bottle, and take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

He states that the ingredients can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy at small cost.

This mixture is said to relieve almost any case of Rheumatism, which is nothing more or less than sour blood—too much acid in the system, which in damp, cool weather forms into minute crystals about the joints and muscles, causing the awful pain and misery of Rheumatism.

The above mixture is said to force the kidneys to purify and sweeten the blood, causing the Rheumatic pain and swelling to diminish with each dose, until permanent results are obtained, and without injuring the stomach.

It is worth while giving this a trial, anyhow.

Baby's Band Worn For Three Years Aid to Strength

Infants from Time of Birth Must Have Abdomens Protected from Colds, Etc.

"BAND HABIT" GOOD

These Pieces, Ten Inches Wide, Are Best—Silk and Wool for Summer.

By Mrs. Mary E. Hood.

From the time a baby is born until it is at least two years old it should never, night or day, be without an abdominal band. Even young mothers understand the importance of this with newly born infants, but it is not an uncommon thing for nurses or parents to lay aside this article of clothing too soon, and thus the child runs a grave risk of intestinal trouble. There is nothing which will help as much to keep the bowels in healthy condition, free from cold, as the tight covering over this most sensitive portion of the body, and a babe would better wear one too long than to have it taken off too soon. It is not until the last part of the third year that he should be without it.

The quality and kind, however, differ a little, and that for a young baby is not the same as the two-year-olds should wear.

That first worn is a soft, warm flannel, about ten inches wide. This is put on after the first bath and should be laced always, not pinned, on the left side. The reason for sewing, rather than safety pins, is that with the latter it is impossible to keep the band quite smooth, and the flannel bunches or wrinkles in a way painful to the delicate flesh. Sewing takes no time at all, if a needle threaded is always ready with baby's toilet things.

For a young infant this protection should always be changed at night, as the fresh one is restful and quieting.

Until baby is beginning his fourth month there should be no change in the quantity or weight of the band. At the end of that time he may be put into those that are knitted and ribbed. The best of these are made with shoulder bands, rather like a little shirt, and stay in place on an active baby far better than bands sewed around.

In the intense heat of a summer day such a band may serve as a shirt and that garment itself be discarded for a few hours. Never, however, run the risk involved in taking off the band for a few hours, no matter how great the heat.

Summer bands may have a little silk in the mixture of the wool. For winter, of course, they are entirely of wool. Always put them over the feet, which will prevent their being stretched out of shape.

While many physicians are of the opinion that a band need not be worn after three years, I have great sympathy with those few mothers who continue to give their children this abdominal protection until the youngsters are seven or eight years old. The value of the band is not understood, because the wrapping is so simple, but later persons are beginning to know that if the abdominal part of the body, in which so many of the organs are situated, is perfectly protected from cold, many forms of illness will be avoided. This is true for grown persons and especially so for children, who are so easily affected by change of temperature, food, etc.

The "band habit" is one of which I approve, and if you young mothers will keep them on your children long after they are babies I believe you will save them much pain and yourselves equal anxiety.

Whether a young girl is nicely dressed or not does certainly add to or mar her pleasures. If her vacation is to be spent away from home the higher prices charged for laundering should be taken into consideration when planning the tub frocks, and styles chosen that can be nicely done up at reasonable cost.

A pretty costume for girls who are given to tramping, golfing or sailing, is one copied after the design shown in the accompanying illustration. It should be made of blue denim or colored linen. This will be inexpensive and will resist wear, tear and dust; even rain will not injure it, and either of these materials is easily washed and ironed. This "Gibson" shirt waist costume has a removable turn-down collar and long or three-quarter sleeves, and a seven gored plaited skirt with an under box plait at the center back. The pattern is in three sizes—thirteen, fifteen and seventeen years. For a miss of fifteen years the dress, as shown on the figure, made of goods with nap or up and down, requires nine yards twenty-seven inches wide, or five and one-half yards forty-four inches in width. The bias fold on the lower part of the skirt may be omitted, as is shown in the back view.

Serges of the light weaves are all ways good for general outing wear, and if the summer is to be spent along the coast or in the New England states a woolen suit is a necessity. No matter what the locality, a blue serge frock is useful. With it may be worn white linen duck, or plique shirt waists for cool days, and lawn, batiste or dimity for warm weather. These fabrics will be effective made after this design, which is carried out on such simple lines that the home dressmaker need have no hesitancy in attempting the costume.

The "Gibson" blouse, which came into prominence a few years ago, is this season broad shouldered in effect and is particularly becoming to young girls when worn with a jaunty little suit of this style. It would be well to provide two or three waists for use with the skirt, as the blouse is bound to become soiled long before it is necessary to wash the skirt.

A white or colored linen costume could be made quite dressy if the cuffs and collar were embroidered. The Marie Antoinette collar, cuffs and frill for the front would give a dainty finish to a waist of sheer material.

(These patterns are designed by Mrs. Jane Ford and published by The Independent-Pearless Pattern Co., 107 West Twenty-fifth street, New York.)

PRINCETON GETS $1,200,000.

Money Donated by Wealthy Family "Not in Public Eye."

Princeton, N. J., May 10.—John Grier Hibben in a communication from the Princeton alumni committee of fifty announces the gift of $1,200,000 to Princeton university.

It is understood that $500,000 will be utilized for physical science laboratories. The remaining $700,000 will be appropriated for geological and biological museums and laboratories. With this money it is proposed to develop the school of science, which has been retarded by lack of facilities in laboratory and museum equipment.

A trustee of the university said the money was donated by a wealthy family interested in the welfare of Princeton, but not even in the public eye.

WILL EMPLOY NON-UNION MEN.

Denver Contractors Angry Because Carpenters Join Sympathetic Strike.

Denver, Col., May 10.—Seventy-five general contractors, angered at the carpenters in striking work because of the mill men's strike, especially when they were granted a ten percent increase in wages on April 1 yesterday, announced that they would commence employing non-union labor on next Monday. This will eventually result in Denver becoming an open town in the building trades, it is predicted.

A development in the fight against the mill owners was the decision of the directors of the trades assembly to send out agents for the purpose of securing evidence against the so-called mill trust of Denver for alleged violation of the federal law in securing timber lands.

HANG ON.

Coffee Toppers as Bad as Others.

"A friend of our family who lived with us a short time was a great coffee drinker and a continual sufferer with dyspepsia. He admitted that coffee disagreed with him, but you know how the coffee drinker will hold on to his coffee, even if he knows it causes dyspepsia.

"One day he said to me that Postum Food Coffee had been recommended and suggested that he would like to try it. I secured a package and made it strictly according to directions. He was delighted with the new beverage, as was every one of our family. He became very fond of it and in a short time his dyspepsia disappeared. He continued using the Postum and in about three months gained twelve pounds.

"My husband is a practicing physician and regards Postum as the healthiest of all beverages. He never drinks coffee, but is very fond of Postum. In fact, all of our family are, and we never think of drinking coffee any more." Read "The Road to Wellville" in packages. "There's a Reason."

BLACK LACE.

Black lace is having an almost unprecedented vogue at present, and this summer some of the smartest hats in pale colored, dyed straw are to be capriciously veiled with the lightest of black lace, or even with a lace bordered, spotted net, says Woman's Life. This drapery will veil the roses or flowers used for the trimming of the hat as well as the hat itself, while in many instances flowers will be dispensed with altogether, and imitation birds of paradise, posed on the lace itself, will be used as trimmings. The colors of the birds including black and saffron, shaded pink and blue, and amethyst—no tone, in fact, being considered too vivid or startling in this connection.

TRIPE A LA LYONNAISE

In whatever way tripe is to be cooked, the preliminary treatment is the same. It comes to us from the butchers already boiled or pickled. It should then be thoroughly washed and soaked in salt and water, washed again, then put into water and simmered a short time until perfectly tender. When cold it may be prepared in any way desired. For cooking a la Lyonnaise, cut in long, flat strips about an inch in length. Put into a saucepan three tablespoonfuls olive oil, and when hot add two tablespoonfuls white onions cut in thin slices. Cook to a delicate golden color. Add the tripe. Cook slowly fifteen minutes, season with salt, pepper, a dash cayenne, a tablespoonful parsley and a tablespoonful tomato conserve. Serve with grated cheese. The conserve comes in little tin cans and keeps well after being opened. A spoonful is quite sufficient for ordinary seasoning. Tripe is also delicious served with bacon. Fry thin slices of bacon until crisp. Take from the pan and put where it will keep hot. Have the tripe cut in pieces ready for serving. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, roll in flour or cornmeal and brown quickly in the hot fat. Serve with the bacon.

LONDON PAUPERS LIVE BETTER THAN MUCH OF NOBILITY

Workhouse Better Than Palaces of Earls and Other Noble Folks.

London, May 10.—London paupers live in luxury that has been denied even to King Edward.

Few baronial mansions or castles of knights or belted earls rival in magnificence the splendors of the workhouse of the London borough of Ham-mersmith.

This fact was revealed yesterday by the report of the local government board, which has been investigating poor law expenditures.

The British taxpayers contemplate the figures in sheer amazement.

Poorhouse Like a Palace.

The entrance to the building is between handsome screens of plate glass. One of the floors is laid of tiled mosaic work, surrounded by a dado of encaustic ware of the most expensive type. Every part of the building is brilliantly lighted with electricity.

A system of duplicate wiring had been installed.

Council for the Rate Payers' association said this system had been suggested recently for Buckingham palace, but it was rejected on the ground of expense.

The dining hall is almost baronial in style, and equal to anything in any of the great colleges of the country. The light to this room is softly diffused by means of stained glass windows.

Cost Was $1,300,000.

The site and the building cost over $1,300,000, which is equivalent, so far as has been ascertained, to the rate of $1.675 per bed. This is far greater than the cost of many houses occupied by hard working families.

In this magnificence the Ham-mersmith paupers live in idleness. They sleep in airy bedrooms, with lace curtains and tinted walls. Soft carpets sink underneath their feet.

They loiter in richly upholstered divans in smoking rooms. Softly shaded lamps furnish light in spacious reading rooms.

Other interesting features included the cost of the cooking apparatus, $15 per pauper, while the annual cost of electricity is also $15 per individual.

Due to Socialist Zeal.

The workhouse was built and supplied by the zeal of the socialist council which for years ruled London.

So extravagant was the socialist expenditures for the benefit of these paupers that even John Burns has revolted. He is at the head of the local government board and is determined to sift this matter down and prevent such amazing waste of money. There is a growing agitation to abolish the boards of poor law guardians and turn over the control of workhouses to the borough authorities.

ANOTHER SPURT FOR FUNDS FOR G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT

Committee Making Personal Letter Appeal to Many Who Have Not Given.

The committee has found it necessary to send out still another appeal to the people of Fort Wayne who have not yet subscribed to the Grand Army entertainment fund to "lend a hand." There are many whose names figure in business and professional life who have not yet signified what they intend to do and a personal letter has been sent to them to join in this movement.

The reputation of the city is so much at stake when cities of Indiana of a fraction the size of this city have raised more than is contemplated in the plans of the general committee here. The total cash thus far placed to the credit of Treasurer Rohan is $3,218.39 except what came in last night and today. This shows both that not enough has been pledged and that some of those who have subscribed have not yet forwarded the money. The committee will incur no indebtedness that it cannot pay and therefore would appreciate prompt payment of subscriptions.

The Aveline Hotel sent in $15 additional this morning. James Peitler sent in $20. Henry Branning subscribed $5 and Charles Phelps $2. "Just to give the best old boys on earth a good time" he wrote. Will Schoch the tailor gave $10. The subscription of Henry Diebold should have been credited to Summer's drugstore.

The Sons of Veterans are at work on their canvass for $1,000. The committee consists of E. H. Rook-walter, W. F. Geller, John W. White, T. W. Blair and George Behler.

The souvenir badges will be placed on sale in a few days in various stores which will handle them for the benefit of the encampment fund. They are exceedingly handsome and will be sure to sell readily.

Winchester veterans want to attend the encampment and are asking for a fair railroad rate. They promise 200 excursionists if the rate is made favorable.

Col. Grund, of the 44th., the oldest man of that rank in the district was a visitor at headquarters this morning.

It is a settled fact that Rev. Frederick A. Heuring, the eighty year old chaplain of the Twenty-Fifth, who wrote from his far away home in Gentryville for a "cot in a school house" will not have to sleep on a cot. Editor Gert Shober, of the Labor Times-Herald in reading the old three meals as good as a hotel's without money and without price with street car tickets thrown in. veteran's letter in the papers sat down and wrote the committee to send the old gentleman to his house and he would get a good bed and

MEETING WELL ATTENDED.

The meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance union at the home of Mrs. J. Welty, on Columbia avenue, was well attended last night. The principal speaker was Fred Rohrer, of Berne, editor of the Berne Witness, and well known advocate of the temperance cause. Other talks were made by A. P. Lehman, I. A. Sommers and Rev. Kilewar, of Berne, who are closely identified with the movement, and N. C. Shirley, head of the movement in this city. Music was furnished by the Lakeside quartet, and Miss Valentine and Bernard Sprunger, soloists. Luncheon was served at the end of the session.

STROMBOLI MORE VIOLENT.

Detonations of Volcano Are Heard Throughout Lipari Islands.

Messina, Sicily, May 10.—The eruption of Mount Stromboli was more violent yesterday and the apprehension is growing. The violence of the present disturbance is declared to be without precedent, even the oldest inhabitants of the Lipari islands not remembering such a threatening condition. Almost all the people of Stromboli island have made their escape. Ashes from the volcano have destroyed everything on the island.

The detonations are heard at all the other islands of the group with remarkable distinctness and produce an effect of terrific roaring. Fears are held that the entire island of Stromboli may be shattered and engulfed.

At the same time the activity of Mount Etna, on the eastern coast of Sicily, has increased. The column of smoke rolling out of the crater serves to reflect the fire within and the illuminated smoke clouds can be seen from Catania, Taormina and even from the Straits of Messina.

ALFRED PACKER IS DEAD IN COLORADO

Strange Life Story of Lagrange County Man Accused of Having Killed Five Men in Mountains and Eaten Their Flesh—Always Asserted His Innocence.

Alfred Packer, the central figure in the grimest tragedy that ever took place in the Rocky mountains, is dead, according to a dispatch from Denver, Colorado, of May 1, appearing in the Sunday Chicago Inter-Ocean. He died in the cabin of a ranch owned by Mrs. Van Alstine, in Deer Creek canon, the only refuge he could find when falling strength drove him from the solitude of the mountains, where he went to escape the curious gaze of his fellowmen when they muttered, "there goes Alfred Packer, five times a murderer and man eater."

For more than thirty years the case of Alfred Packer has been a subject of controversy in the state of Colorado. The question, "did Alfred Packer kill and eat five of his fellowmen?" has caused more dispute and trouble in executive circles than any other subject that has come up in the capital city. That Packer did eat human flesh there is no doubt. He confessed it himself, both before and at his trial.

Driven to Cannibalism.
But that he was driven to the act of cannibalism by a combination of circumstances which would have turned the brain of almost any ordinary man was the contention of those who always believed him innocent of the murder. Be that as it may, Packer served eighteen years in the state penitentiary for the crime of murder, shunned by everyone except lawyers, all anxious to undertake his case before the pardon board for the money that Packer was known to possess.

Just one week before the end he painfully scrawled a message to Governor Buchtel, "I am dying," he said, "and I am innocent of crime. I wish to meet my Maker without a shadow hanging over me, and so I ask that I be given an unconditional pardon for the crime of which I was convicted. I have asked nothing in the past, but I want to die clear in the opinion of my fellowmen." According to those who cared for him in his last days, the letter was sent to Governor Buchtel, but no answer was received, and it is supposed that his letter was referred to the board of pardons for action.

Declared His Innocence.
Admitting that to save his own life he had eaten of the flesh of his fellowmen, Packer to the last asserted that he had not killed them. Convicted of the murder of five prospectors in 1882, he was released from the penitentiary on parole by Governor Thomas in 1901. Avoided even by men who believed him innocent of the crime of murder, because of the terrible experience, he never forced himself upon them. He spent his summers in the fastnesses of the mountains, and in the winters worked on the Connelly ranch. Two months ago the Connellys went to Salt Lake for the winter, and Packer was left alone. One month ago his almost lifeless body was found on the doorstep of the ranch by Charles Cash, a deputy game warden, who chanced to be passing. Knowing that his end was near, Packer had not sought aid, and had intended to die as he had lived the last ten years of his life, alone. Taken to the Van Alstine ranch, he was cared for until his death by Mrs. Van Alstine and her daughter, Mrs. Cash. His worn-out body was laid to rest in the little cemetery at Littleton under the auspices of John C. Fremont post, Grand Army of the Republic, for Packer, whatever else he was, had been a brave soldier in the union army and a noted scout.

Story Once Familiar.
The story of Packer was one familiar to the last generation, but the haze of years has surrounded much of the detail. Much has been added and much omitted. During the last days of his life he repeated it often to the woman who nursed him, detaching himself from it and speaking always in the third person. "There was Alfred Packer," he said, "and there were five men with him, who started from Salt Lake in the winter of 1873 for the San Juan country in Colorado. The men of the east knew nothing of the mountains, but Packer did, for the mountains were his home, and he thought he knew them. Packer led the party toward the Los Pinos Indian agency in Hinsdale county, Colorado, and Packer did not expect to have any trouble in reaching it, for the mountains had always been his friends, all-ways—until then. For two weeks the weather was fine, and Packer killed game for the easterners and they were pleased, for they had never been in mountains such as the San Juan.

"One day Packer and his party saw some Indians a long way off coming toward them, and they stopped and waited for them. It was old Chief Ouray, friend of the whites, and a party of warriors.

Warned by Chief Ouray.
"Go no farther into the San Juans," said the old chief to Packer. "The snow is deep and the game is gone," but Packer, friend of the mountains, laughed at the warning of Ouray and traded him ammunition for food. Three weeks' march into the heart of the San Juans and the snow came. For days snow fell and the valleys filled, hiding all trails and making hunting impossible. Packer for the first time began to fear the mountains. But he and those who were with him had food in abundance, and they made a camp, thinking that soon the snow would go, but weeks ran into a month and they could not get out. Packer tried to hunt, but there was no game, not even a bird or a rabbit, only the mountains frowning through the snow clouds and the moaning of the wind in the spruce pines. Then into Packer's heart crept the fear of death by starvation, but wisely he said nothing to the men from the east, who would have become mad. When the rations were cut down, they began to murmur and fear swept their faces white, then they cursed Packer for leading them into the mountains to die. He begged them to keep up their courage, and told them that he would climb the great peak overlooking their camp and see if he could not spy a way out, and they said nothing, but buried their heads under their blankets. Pulling his belt tight to his empty stomach, Packer crawled up the peak, tearing his flesh from his hands as he hung on the edges of great depths.

In Silence of the Snow.
"Five days in the great silence of the snow Packer worked up the cliffs until he gained the summit and saw from the deep valley to the south, where a settlement might lie. Then he hurried back to camp to tell the others. As he neared the camp he smelled the odor of roasting flesh, and mad with hunger, believing that his comrades had killed game, yelled with joy as he came in sight of the camp. Then he saw the camp fire and sitting beside it a man almost naked who was toasting something on a stick. As this man saw Packer he sprang at his feet and picking up a hatchet ran toward him. Screaming madly he struck at Packer and then Packer saw that the skin of the man was bloody. In the man's eyes was a look of madness which meant death and Packer shot the man dead. Then Packer looked for the others and found them lying behind a rock. They were dead. Packer sat down by the fire and something burnt him in the head. All he saw was five dead men lying naked about the fire, and the snow and the great silence made him feel that there was no other living person in the world.

Ate Human Flesh.
"Then to his nose again there crept the smell of roasting flesh and Packer, with his stomach crying for food, reached out his hand and took the flesh and ate it, and the pangs of hunger shot through and through him and he ate again and in awhile his mind became clearer with strength and he saw what he had done, but he could not stop eating then and after awhile he smoked some of the flesh and packed it away in a bundle, and then he traveled until he reached Los Pinos agency and told what he had done. But those who went afterward to see, found the bodies, and said that Packer had led the easterners into the mountains and killed them for their money. The court did not try Packer then, so he went to Wyoming and was a scout for General Custer and then in 1883 twelve men came to Packer's ranch, where he was living alone, and said that he had murdered the men.

"They took him back to Colorado for trial, and after three trials he was found guilty and sentenced to serve forty years in the penitentiary, because even then there were some who did not believe all the story. Afterward he was paroled. Now Packer is dying and he is innocent and he blames no one.

Public Opinion Against Him.
"At the time of his trial public opinion was all against him. He made several damaging statements and his actions were not such as to gain him sympathy. His conviction at the first trial of murder in the first degree resulted in an unusual wording of the sentence by Judge Gerry, which became famous throughout the country. The judge is reported to have said: 'Alfred Packer, stand up. Do you realize that in 1873 the population of Hinsdale county consisted of eight persons, and you, you man-eating ing—, not only killed over half of the population in one county of this law abiding state, but you also ate their bodies? I, therefore, sentence you to be hung by the neck until you are quite dead, and may the Lord have mercy on your sinful soul.'

Son of Lagrange Pioneer.
Alfred Packer was a son of James Packer, a pioneer in Lagrange county, who died February 23, 1902, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fought, at the age of ninety-five and a half years. He was born in Lagrange county and his parents were among the first members of the Methodist Episcopal church, identifying themselves in 1843 with that religious organization. Mrs. Van Alstine, a sister, made her home several years on West Central avenue in Lagrange.

STRIKE BREAKERS SENT OVER FOR GETTING TOO STRONG

Five Men Who Came Here to Work Got It—The City Court.

Ed Kennedy, Bert Finley, Frank Maguire, Frank Carpenter and Dan Flaherty, who came here to take the places of the striking moulders at the Bass foundry, were in the city court this morning on charges of drunkenness and all of them went to jail because they could not pay the fines assessed against them by Judge Skelton.

Ed Kennedy didn't do any particular harm to anybody but just bought what is sometimes termed a bun and went down and out with it on Fairfield avenue. He got $5.

Frank Maguire went out and bought drinks for the men quartered at the Calderwood hotel and succeeded in getting enough for himself to make him believe he could lick the entire police force and when he tried it he found his mistake. A blackjack was found in his pocket and he drew $5. Bert Finley was his partner and he, too, told of about how many police officers he could clean up in a day and for about fifteen days he will do duty on top of a rock pile.

Frank Carpenter just drank to overflowing and was helpless when he was taken to headquarters. Eleven days was his and Dan Flaherty, who was in a saloon telling how strong he was, got the chief after him and will do eleven days for drunkenness.

The Other Cases.
Frank Snyder was taken to the hospital ward of the jail last night and kept by the sheriff under promise that his brother would file an affidavit against him this morning for drunkenness. He didn't show up and the sheriff filed the paper himself and Snyder was fined $1 and costs.

Sidney Roy and Charles Lohr, who had been sleeping in a barn on Maumee avenue and who refused to get out, got $1 and costs each.

Ed Auer for beating a board bill was fined $5 and costs. He has been up four times on the same charge, but always managed to settle heretofore.

LOVE LETTER TRIPS A PASTOR.

He Writes It to Girl, but Mails It to County Official by Mistake.

Harrington, Del., May 10.—A fervent love letter to Miss Della Goodrich, formerly his assistant, has brought about the downfall of Rev. De Witt Maynard Carpenter, until Wednesday the well-beloved pastor of the Apostolic Holiness Union church in Harrington. By mistake the pastor put the letter in an envelope addressed to the recorder of deeds instead of a marriage notice. The recorder notified the trustees of the church.

A meeting of the trustees was hastily called and the pastor was notified to appear. Instead of doing so he forwarded his resignation and left Harrington by the first train yesterday. Mr. Carpenter leaves a wife and two children in Harrington.

Last fall as Mrs. Carpenter entered the house after an absence she found the assistant pastor sitting on the pastor's lap, and this incident led to Miss Goodrich's departure. Last night the trustees of the church formally deposited Mr. Carpenter and elected Mrs. Viola Carpenter, his wife, as his successor.

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS FOR ANAEMIA

Thin Blood, Dizzy Spells, Palpitating Heart and

Indicate a Condition for Which This Remedy is a Specific.

An anaemic condition, that is, a state of health in which the blood is apparently turning to water, and every organ of the body is suffering for lack of nourishment, can be met only by a remedy that will increase the quantity and richness of the blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood and they have been curing anaemia for a generation. A recent case is that of Miss Nellie M. Danforth, of 66 South Broadway, Akron, Ohio. It was not an unusually severe case, but was a characteristic one.

The approach of Miss Danforth's trouble was very gradual. She felt symptoms of it for a year and although she was under a physician's care for some time the treatment did not afford her any relief. She says:

"I had weak spells when I felt as though I was going to faint and my heart would palpitate so that I was almost smothered. I had no color, even in my lips, and my ears were as white as wax. Everyone said my blood was turning to water."

"Whenever I would rise from a chair I would have to hold on to it to steady myself as everything would turn dark before my eyes and all I could see were flashes of light, like shooting stars."

"Nothing seemed to help me and when a friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I got a box. I began to feel a little better and continued taking the pills until I had fully recovered. I have recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to a number of my friends."

A valuable booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," containing fuller information will be sent free upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

ROSES FOR STRIKE-BREAKERS.

San Francisco Women Give Flowers to Unarmed Men on Cars.

San Francisco, May 10.—Roses and carnations, instead of brickbats and cobblestones, were features of yesterday's run of two cars of the United Railroads, manned by twenty strike-breakers, from the car barns at Oak and Broderick streets for three or four miles through the business and residence streets of the western addition.

Stirred to admiration by the courage of unarmed strike-breakers in operating the two cars in the mob-crowded thoroughfares, women all along the route stood on doorsteps or leaned from windows and waved handkerchiefs, clapped their hands, cheered and threw kisses to the non-uniformed as the police-protected cars ran slowly by.

On the return trip, on Sacramento street, near Presidio avenue, a girl ran out from a florist's shop and tossed a handful of bright red, long stemmed carnations to the platform of one of the cars. Lifting their caps and smiling, several of the men leaned far out and caught the flowers. The cars were halted then, while young women brought clusters of carnations and roses from the shop and offered them to the men.

MABELLE NOT TO QUIT STAGE.

After One Year Mr. Corey's Bride Will Play for Charity.

New York, May 10.—Mabelle Gilman will not abandon her stage career when she becomes Mrs. William E. Corey. She will not appear in public for a year at least, but she expects ultimately to play for charity, both in this city and in Paris.

Mr. Corey, to whom she will be married just after midnight on the morning of May 14, is in full sympathy with his promised bride on this point. A friend of Miss Gilman who is in her confidence said yesterday afternoon: "In the chateau near the French capital which Mr. and Mrs. Corey will regard as their permanent home there is a small but complete theater. Here Mrs. Corey will appear in various plays, all of an operatic nature, however, and to audiences composed of invited guests."

"Jean De Reszke, who has been teaching Miss Gilman at intervals during the last two years, has already suggested that they appear together in 'Carmen.'"

The papers incorporating the Summit City Athletic association will be filed with the secretary of state at Indianapolis today. The members of the association are business and professional men of the city.

It is something out of the ordinary to be able to take first choice from so rich an assortment at regular prices, but when these sharply reduced figures prevail that effect every tailored suit the time to purchase has arrived. Our reductions are started from a price point no other house can reach as in every instance our original prices are lower than elsewhere—due to the unusual purchasing facilities we enjoy, consequently in a great offering of this character you may count upon an immense saving.

It is impossible to describe the garments accurately, or to truly portray the wonderful values offered in this assortment but we emphatically state that no Spring Coat Suit of any description or material is reserved, but every Silk or Worsted Suit, be it in plain, novelty or fancy weave—in silk or wool—and no matter how new the style or how recently received.

THEY ALL MUST GO

These are reductions you might expect at the end of June but our creed of fashion is to be way ahead in every style movement.

NO CHOLERA CURE YET.

Government Working On Hog Disease With Hope of Success.

THE erroneous impression prevails in some quarters that the government has finally discovered a sure cure for hog cholera and is ready to supply virus or medicine to farmers.

Under date of February 5, 1907, Prof. A. D. Melvin, Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the Agricultural Department at Washington, writes:

"A method of immunizing hogs from hog cholera has been worked out on a basis of the experiments described in Bulletin No. 72, but the department has not yet published a description of these immunization experiments, nor has it been determined that the method is suitable for practical application. Work along this line will be carried out as rapidly as possible. The department has been granted a patent for the method we are employing."

"The government for many years has been working on this important matter, but as Dr. Melvin's letter observes has not yet reached a complete solution of the trouble."

The discovery of hog cholera bacillus was made in 1885 and it is known

A door for the hog house, hung on a rod in the center, so it will swing both ways, will keep out the draught. It should be solid but not too heavy. A square frame, like the frame of a common chair, slipped over a cow's head, will prevent her from sucking. It is better than a band with iron spikes around the nose.

BEEF PULP LAYS ON FAT.

A Wisconsin experiment with beef pulp, where it can be had cheaply at the five great factories, again proves its value of that product as feed for cattle, sheep and pigs.

In this experiment five cows were fed twenty-four pounds of pulp for six weeks in addition to hay and grain. For five weeks twelve pounds of sugar beets were substituted for the pulp.

The average weekly gain on pulp was 6.2 pounds and on sugar beets one-fifth pound. The average weekly milk yield on pulp was 131.1 pounds and on beets 127.4 pounds. The average weekly butter yield on pulp was 6.76 pounds and on beets 6.9 pounds. Milk contained more fat when sugar beets were fed.

This experiment indicated that when butter was worth 20 cents per pound, pulp and beets fed in small amounts were worth respectively $2.61 and $3.06 per ton.

Beef pulp also saves other food, particularly hay, although we do not understand how the amount of roughage could be materially affected by the pulp. However, the farmer who conducted the experiment declares that in one test with steers one ton of pulp took the place of 421.5 pounds of corn stover, 274 pounds of mixed hay and 68.8 pounds of grain.

A lot of thirty steers receiving pulp consumed per steer per day, fifty-five pounds of pulp, 8.3 pounds of mixed hay, four pounds shredded corn stover, 2.4 pounds ground grain and made a daily gain of 1.42 pounds.

Fat mutton was not made by beef pulp alone, but as meat had a good flavor where fed with corn and alfalfa the results were satisfactory. It took a ton of pulp to equal 200 pounds of corn and lambs fed pulp and alfalfa made better gain than others fed the same rations with corn added.

Beef pulp is not very profitable feed for hogs. Nothing in the world beats corn for hogs.

HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS.

One of the best arrangements ever seen on the farm was in western Pennsylvania, where an old German had built his summer kitchen, coal house, tool house and poultry house all in a row, connecting them with his house and barn.

Ever try smoking mutton hams? Treat them just as you would hog bacon and you will find them to be fine.

The woman who blacks stoves with a cloth has something to learn. An old paint brush will do the job better and keep her hands clean.

Overhaul and plan your spring sewing now and save time later on. Don't neglect the social side of life. Visit your neighbors as often as you can and invite them to your own home. Too many winter shut-ins on the farm.

Peel onions in front of the open hearth if you have one, or out of doors if not. The draft and the fresh air will save tears. A better way than either is to hold them under water when peeling.

When you remove feathers from on-tick to the other put a tomato can with the ends pushed out in one bag and tie the tick tightly around it. Tie it the same way and shake out the feathers.

A few drops of ammonia in the water when boiling clothes will help to keep them clean. Never use more than a teaspoonful to a boiler of water.

Dry plaster of Paris or a loaf of stale bread will, with care, remove soiled spots from wall paper.

NEWS OF THE FARM.

The Iowa State Federation of Labor has sent a general organizer to visit all the counties in the state to form farmers' local unions. Texas and Wisconsin already have many farmers' unions, but none of them are as yet allied with the American Federation of Labor.

President J. J. Hill of the Great Northern railway, recently testified before the Minnesota state railway commission that the farmers were mistreated by the elevators which entered into unlawful combines and that charges in many cases are excessive. Not later than 1887 nobody outside of the elevator combination in the Northwest could build an elevator on Mr. Hill's road and it became necessary to pass a very stringent law preventing the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and other great railroads in the Northwest from combining with the elevator companies to do the farmer great injustice.

The price of land in some portions of irrigated Montana has advanced during the past few months. In the vicinity of Twin Bridges improved ranches under cultivation have recently been sold for $35 to $40 per acre.

It is reported that Solomon Watson near Arcola, Ill., raised 2,300 acres of corn on twenty acres. The ground has been under blue grass pasture for many years. The seed was extra large. Boone County White, and particular attention was given to the cultivation.

A food grower of Slackmans county, Oregon, sued J. H. Reed, food inspector, to recover damages for cutting down a prize orchard which the owner has failed to spray as directed. The verdict was against the owner of the orchard.

The Minneapolis Market-Record says there is a decrease of 45,000 bushels of wheat in the Northwest this year, owing to the greatly increased acreage and yield of Durham wheat, which is not milled in this country.

Through the system of drainage now in operation in the great Kan-keas swamp regions, land that was under water three years ago, last season yielded from 100 to 125 bushels of corn to the acre.

TANKAGE FOR GROWING PIGS.

Lays On Flesh and Lessens the Cost of Feeding.

THE big packing houses of Chicago and Kansas City are turning out a product called tankage, which is being largely used as a supplementary feed by farmers in the West.

To test the value of this product, Director Burnett of the Nebraska Station fed three lots of hogs on various foods using tankage with two. Lot one was fed soaked corn, the other two lots were fed soaked corn, one lot receiving 5 per cent tankage and the other 10 per cent.

It was found that the cost was always lessened by the use of 5 per cent tankage while the feeding of 10 per cent tankage was not so profitable.

Five per cent is equal to 230 lbs. of tankage for each 100 bushels of corn fed.

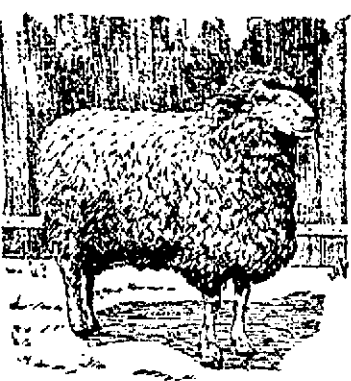

The pigs which were fed on soaked corn were in a dry lot. Those that were fed on 5 per cent tankage and soaked corn were on alfalfa pasture and those fed 10 per cent tankage were also on pasture.

The cost of alfalfa was not figured in any of the experiments. The net results of the experiments showed that the hogs fed on corn alone cost 25 per cent more than those fed on corn and 5 per cent tankage.

The gains of those fed on corn and 10 per cent tankage cost 16 per cent more than those of lot two, while the gains of those fed on corn alone cost 14 per cent more than those fed on corn and 10 per cent tankage.

The use of tankage makes very rapid gains and materially shortens the fattening period. Prof. Burnett says that it is profitable beyond doubt to feed tankage along with corn to breeding or fattening pigs.

In this experiment tests were made with pigs fed on tankage and ground bone to ascertain the effect on the bones and it was found in every case that these feeds added greatly to the strength of the bones.

A CHAMPION LINCOLN.

This ewe is a good specimen of the Lincoln breed of sheep. She won first prize at the last International Live Stock Show at Chicago. The Lincolns are large, hearty and long-wooled.

SHREDDER CORN GOOD SILAGE.

While almost everyone who has had any experience in feeding shredded corn fodder seems to think that it makes an excellent feed, yet many who value it highly as a feed find it extremely difficult to store it in a manner so that it will not spoil before it can be used.

After studying this matter for a number of years and understanding the value of the shredded stalks as a feed we concluded that if there was any way to keep it that the silo would solve the problem.

The silo we refilled was about one-half full of ensilage, the rest having been fed since filling time in September. So we husked and shredded the fodder and ran it into a pile on the ground where it would be convenient to get the ensilage cutter.

We then ran it all through the ensilage cutter into the silo, cut in the same manner as our regular ensilage feed, except that we kept an inch stream of water running into the blower that elevated the feed into the silo all of the time that the machine was running.

MR. LUTHER BURBANK.

This is the man who has done more to propagate new and valuable fruits and beautiful flowers than any other man in America. He originated the great Burbank potato, and during the past few years has astonished the world with the results of his plant breeding. Andrew Carnegie has provided a fund of $40,000 for Mr. Burbank's support in order that he may continue his work without being harassed by the difficulties of making a living.

PROTECT PLUMS FROM CURCULIO.

Plums, too often an uncertain crop on account of curculio, may be easily grown every year unless destroyed by frost. This is especially true of the old Damascus plums, the rich flavor of which is not too little known in the scramble for the newer Japanese varieties.

Just before the buds open the trees should be thoroughly sprayed. The writer has for a number of years used London purple without injurious effects to the foliage, a desert spoonful to ten gallons of water. Some of the other remedies are said to be less injurious to the leaves, and are especially recommended for the peach, as arsenate of lead, the best used in proportion of two pounds to fifty gallons of water, or Paris green, one pound to 150 or 200 gallons of water.

By spraying just before the buds open and just after the blossoms fall, there is no danger of poisoning bees and experience shows it to be best also for the fruit. The second spraying should be followed by a third two weeks later.

Small trees may be protected by daily jarring and gathering the beetles as they fall into sheets prepared for the purpose, but with large trees this method is scarcely practicable.

James J. Hill, president of the who controls the Great Northern, Burlington and Northern Pacific railways and some others, is pretty busy these days, telling the government how the agriculture of the country ought to be managed. Mr. Hill's advice should not be lightly considered, for he is a farmer himself.

The government is after the Western thieves who have stolen thousands of acres of valuable coal and mineral lands by fraudulent entries, perjury and bribery. Many of these lands were sold to the railroad companies at less than $5 an acre, on which the coal royalties alone would amount to thousands. In most of these cases the thieves are the men who ride in private cars and control great business enterprises.

In this way it packed as solid and kept in as good condition as any ensilage we ever put up and there has been a silo on the farm since 1889.

From our experience in feeding this kind of feed we think it could be made profitable to husk and shred all of the corn that goes into the silo, especially for a dairy that are being fed up to nearly their capacity.

Of course, the corn that goes into the silo increases the value of the ensilage, but we are not sure that it increases it to an extent that would equal the value of the ear corn which is usually worth from 50 to 60 cents per bushel in New York, and I am writing this upon the conditions as we found them in that state.—J. D. Harrison, New York.

A GOOD HARNESS OIL.

Recipe for making harness oil: Take two quarts of fish-oil, two pounds of mutton tallow, one pint of castor-oil, one-quarter pound of ivory black, one-half pound of beeswax, four ounces of resin, one ounce of Burgundy pitch. Put these ingredients into an iron kettle, place over a slow fire; boil and stir for half an hour. Let settle for fifteen minutes, and then pour off all but the sediment into another vessel. Use cold. After oiling the harness, wipe it off with a dry rag. Neatsfoot-oil will answer if fish-oil is not obtainable.

The average farmer could add from 15 to 25 per cent to his income from vegetables and fruit if he was not too proud to deliver them to customers direct.

Knock out floor by scattering fine, fresh powdered lime over their haunts; or kerosene; or Persian insect powder. Give 'em plenty. But do not have any dusty spots under a floor, or elsewhere, where they can breed and multiply.

It certainly pays as well to "breed" a strain of seed corn, as to "breed" a strain of cattle. Great improvement surely comes through wise selection. The farmer who annually selects the most perfect ears for seed, rapidly climbs the ladder of success.

RAISING SUGAR BEETS.

Profitable in the West, But Still Unsuccessful in the East.

C. F. Barber, New York.

THE growing of sugar beets for the production of sugar has become an important and profitable industry in our country and yet it is only in the first stages of national development.

That the progressive West has caught on in this line as in many other industries will appear when the fact is stated that Iowa has five factories for making sugar from beets, while there is only one in all the states east of Ohio and north of the Mason and Dixon line. That one is at Lyons, the county capital of Wayne Co., N. Y.

That the industry is profitable is proven by the fact that from Wayne county, where growing the beets for sugar originated, twenty-four counties now send beets to the refinery at Lyons.

The writer remembers when there was only one railroad in the state of New York; when the first ocean steamer from Europe arrived in New York; when kerosene laid aside the "tallow dip"; when "oft did the harvest to the sickle yield"; "when the emigrating hosts from eastern states were lighted by the 'Star of Empire' through the Erie canal to the prairies of the west and when rye gave place to wheat on the farmer's table. The time will come—it should have been here some years ago, when farmers east of Ohio will cease to compete with the great West in growing wheat, but I believe they will be strong competitors in beet growing.

In regard to the beet sugar industry which seems to be increasing in extent of territory and importance in agriculture, any soil that is good for corn is good for sugar beets. Seed time is from April 1 to June 10 and the beets require about five months to mature and are not injured by being frozen.

The number of tons per acre will vary as do other crops on the farm. Much depends on soil and cultivation. With the best conditions of soil and culture twenty-four tons have been grown on one acre and yet some growers are content with a crop of from eight to ten tons.

Beets are sold in central New York for $5 a ton on cars at the nearest station to the grower. If we call the average yield to be fifteen tons an acre, which at $5 is $75, while one acre of wheat yielding twenty bushels at $1 a bushel will bring an income of $20, there is an average of $55 per acre in favor of the beets. An average of about fifteen pounds of sugar can be made from 100 pounds of beets.

The pulp is now dried and is one of the best foods for cattle, for either milk or beef.

SOME DAIRY POINTERS.

A sudden change of feed is dangerous and should be avoided as much as possible.

The dairyman must learn the value of alfalfa, clover hay, ensilage, forage crops, oil meal, cottonseed meal, gluten meal and similar feeds rich in proteins and how to feed them in the most economical and judicious manner.

Dry milch cows need no grain if supplied with good clover hay and ensilage.

The feeder must study his cows and know how much rough feed and how much grain each cow can consume at a profit.

In feeding for city milk, I have always found it best to keep more cows than was necessary to keep up to contract most of the time. I figured that in this way by increasing the grain ration at any time it would save buying cows at a time when they were scarce, and also realize more profit from pasture, ensilage and clover that I produced on the farm.

The cow should be fed so as to reach her maximum yield a few days after calving, then everything possible should be done to hold her up to a high plane during her milking period, but not crowd her too much.

Cows vary more in the amount of grain they will consume than in the amount of roughness. The idea is to get a cow to eat only what grain she can consume at a profit.

Most dairymen cut their hay too late; cut when the grass is in full blossom.

No dairymen ever made any money trying to fatten an old, worn-out dairy cow. Better sell her cheap and give the feed to good young ones.

Unless you can shape the rolls well with a ladle, invest in a butter stamp. It adds much to the looks of the product—and looks count a great deal in butter.

But of course flavor is the greatest thing, and no stamp will render rancid butter satisfactory. If there is a lack of freshness, don't work it over in butter milk and think you can pass it off for a first-class article. You may sell the butter that once, but you injure your reputation. It is more profitable to be honest and offer the inferior for what it is worth.

If the cream inclines to spatter, pour cold water on the floor around the churn and mop up before commencing to churn. The grease will not sink so much into the wood.

If milk is kept in pans, remember that air is essential. Good ventilation, with the temperature never below freezing, will prove satisfactory.

Those who have regular customers not only get the highest price for their butter, but it is paid in cash rather than in store products. It also opens up a good market for a limited amount of fruit and vegetables, not always marketable at a country store.

If a cow kicks, milt the cause. In nine cases out of ten, it may be traced to some other cause than viciousness.—C. S. Gorman.

VALUE OF A TON OF MANURE.

A load of fresh manure, one ton, contains ten pounds of nitrogen, two pounds of phosphorus and ten pounds of potassium, besides other elements of plant-food not so important in point of provision. If figured at commercial prices, the nitrogen at 15 cents a pound, the phosphorus at 12 cents and the potassium at 6 cents, a ton of such manure would be worth $2.34.

But bare figures are not interesting unless their relations to other things which do interest us are shown. Corn fodder, for instance, has sixteen pounds of nitrogen, two pounds of phosphorus and seventeen pounds of potassium. It is worth, merely as manure when figured as above stated, $2.65.

A ton of oat straw is on the same basis worth $3.25. Wheat straw is worth $2.75; clover hay $3.40; alfalfa hay $3.40; cowpea hay $3.00; timothy hay $3.55. Thus a ton of manure would be less valuable than a ton of any of our ordinary field crops, if the manure were used as fertilizer only, and also supposing them to be immediately available as plant-food.

The fact that they require a longer or shorter period for decay, while manure is quickly available, accounts for the more apparent value of the latter. It is interesting to note that a ton of manure contains sufficient nitrogen for ten bushels of corn; enough potassium for 52.6 bushels. For wheat there is enough nitrogen for eight bushels; phosphorus for 12.3 bushels, and potassium for 35.3 bushels.

Manure has the effect of making the soil looser and more easily tillable; it gives better color and enables the soil to drain better and retain moisture better. It also sets free other foods from the soil. Commercial fertilizers require that other things, such as straw or green manures, be added, to prevent the land from becoming "killed," as the condition is often termed.

SHORT TALKS ON POULTRY.

At the present prices of grain, it will cost from 10 to 15 cents a pound to raise chickens to five months of age.

Bluffed broomcorn seed is a good food for variety. Cane seed and millet are excellent for scattering among light scratching fowls. It makes both chicks and fowls work. Pop corn is good for variety.

Feeding pumpkins to fowls is more or less dangerous, especially when the seeds are given.

Green bone should be fed the day it is cut. Uncut bone can be safely kept several days during cold weather.

Clover heads, steeped over night in scalding water, make a good, strong tea. Mix tea and heads in the morning mash, and you have one of the very best egg foods.

For thirty hens feed about two pounds of green cut bone twice a week. Feeding boiled potatoes in the morning mash, in the proportion of one-half, is pretty heavy—one-fourth would be better.

Chicks hatched in an incubator will be as hardy and strong as those hatched by hens, if the incubator has been rightly managed. Beginners with incubators should first carefully study the workings of the machines before they set them with eggs.

Moisture gauges in incubators are not, as a rule, reliable.

Generally once a day is enough to cool eggs. You must be governed more or less by the condition of the air cell in the egg. In turning the eggs twice a day, they get considerable cooling.

It is a mistake to put Braham and Wyandotte eggs in the same incubator at the same time. Owing to the tough shell of the former, they require different treatment. A study of the air cell will explain if moisture or ventilation are needed. In case both varieties are placed in the machine at the same time (for example) the air cell of the Braham egg may call for moisture, while that of the Wyandotte may want ventilation. Each variety should be incubated separately.

WHAT FERTILIZERS ARE WORTH.

The real and relative value of one ton each of several fertilizers as given by the Illinois College of Agriculture. A ton of fresh farm manure contains ten pounds of nitrogen, two pounds of phosphorus and ten pounds of potassium, with a total value of $2.34.

Of dried blood, 280 pounds of nitrogen worth $42.

Of sodium nitrate, 310 pounds of nitrogen worth $46.50.

Of ammonium sulphate, 400 pounds of nitrogen valued at $60.

Of raw bone meal, eighty pounds of nitrogen and 180 pounds of phosphorus worth in all, $33.60.

Of steamed bone meal, twenty pounds of nitrogen and 250 pounds of phosphorus worth $33.

Of acidulated bone meal, forty pounds of nitrogen and 440 pounds of phosphorus worth $22.80.

Of slag phosphate, 160 pounds of phosphorus worth $19.20.

Of rock phosphate, 250 pounds of phosphorus worth $30.

Of acid phosphate, 125 pounds of phosphorus valued at $15.

Of potassium chloride (muriate of potash) 840 pounds of potassium worth $50.40.

Of potassium sulphate (sulphate of potash) 800 pounds of potassium worth $48.

Of kainit, 200 pounds of potassium worth $12.

Of wood ashes, (unbleached) 10 pounds of phosphorus and 100 pounds of potassium worth $7.20.

THE DESPISED CORNCOB.

Whoever counted the uses to which corncobs are put? They make stoppers for bottles when the corks have been mislaid, or for the bung-hole of the cider barrel; they are useful to throw at hens when they scratch up the spring onions; to ferret the children with; to freeze the griddle; to chop a point, a corn-cob smudge gives ham and bacon a delicious flavor; one put on a pole, saturated with kerosene and set ablazing will destroy the caterpillar's nest. Kindled, then set a-smoking, they make a good disinfectant, or rather, deodorizer. You can black boots with them; or shell corn by rubbing the grains on them. A corncob makes a good scrubbing-brush, and an ingenious woman once hung out a large wash with clothespins made of cleft corncobs.

When the spokes of the carriage get so they will rattle, it is pretty poor business to try to tink them up. Better take the wheels to some man who knows his business and have him set the tires.

Nail a long, narrow box up against a post in the barn, one end up. Drive in three or four nails near the top, and hang up the saws there. You can make a little door of the top of the box and fasten it with a hand-made hook. Then put the saws there every time.

The trouble with most of us is we allow our neighbors to do our thinking for us.

A bull without a ring in his nose attached to a leading stick is about as dangerous as a chunk of dynamite—you never can tell when they will break loose, and it doesn't pay to take chances with either.

The farmer gets 16 cents per pound for turkeys, while Mr. Chyman pays 20 cents for them at his grocers. The difference is the meat trust and the middleman.

GOOD MONEY IN TEN ACRES.

Small Farms Can Be Made to Pay Well By Proper Handling.

F. L. Risley, Connecticut.

MANY LAND formerly consisted of forty acres under a high state of cultivation, dry, fine, sandy soil, free of weeds and stones and rats; an excellent grade of vegetables and fruits, an orchard yielding quantities of marketable fruit besides some "after producers."

After awhile I sold the land down to ten acres. The principal buildings were located on a sheltered hillside, for the more apparent value of the convenient to a meadow, spring brook and tract of woodland. The location a ton of manure contained sufficient nitrogen for ten bushels of corn; enough potassium for 52.6 bushels. For wheat there is enough nitrogen for eight bushels; phosphorus for 12.3 bushels, and potassium for 35.3 bushels.

Poultry was the main business; turkeys, guineas and ducks to the number of eighty or one hundred were sold each season. Slaughtering was done on the place and all birds went to two local butchers. Too much cannot be said in praise of duck raising.

All the milk and eggs and many fowls and vegetables were disposed of readily to regular customers.

Strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, each grew in its allotted place and the fruit was bespoken almost before it became marketable.

I know of no method of making ready money as pleasant and profitable as raising small fruit, unless it is from exceptionally fresh and perfect garden truck. There are always persons willing to pay liberally for fine, reliable vegetables, which go hand in hand with butter and eggs.

Our place raised everything needed for house, stock, etc. There was hay, corn, oats—nothing to buy outside and the hogs did their share toward keeping affairs profitable. This and more was successfully carried along each year by an interested and harmonious family.

THE TOMATOES USE.

The tomato is a good thing. We eat it raw like an apple; we stew it as a vegetable; we fry it as a meat; we can it for winter use; and we make it into pickles, preserves, chow-chow, ketchup and lots of other things. It comes early in the summer and stays with us until frost, and a little care now will prolong its usefulness until December. We cover our vines with straw frosty nights, uncovering in the morning; or, the fruit may be gathered green and ripened in a tight box. Darkness is better than light for ripening them.

The only way to get rid of poison ivy is thoroughly to dig it out and dispose of it root and branch by burning or drying in the sun, says the Rural New-Yorker. Many persons are not affected by poison ivy, and have no hesitation in handling the plant. If susceptible to the poison it is necessary to wear heavy gloves in handling it.

A POPULAR FARMER.

An Iowa man made so much barrel last fall that he couldn't find barrels in which to keep it, and so he pumped all the water out of his cement cistern and filled it with cider. When this became known the farmer soon found himself the most popular man in the neighborhood, and men who had passed his house for years without ever speaking to him suddenly developed a warm friendship.

AVOID DEEP DEAD-FURROWS.

Do not plow your land round and round the same way, year after year, unless you want a deep dead-furrow in the middle that will bear nothing and be a hard place to cross. When plowing for seedling begin at the dead-furrow, throw the first furrow into the ditch, wheel the horses about to the right, wheel and drive back to the starting point, turning a furrow up against the ditch, and so on.

This plan, followed to the end, will leave the land all smooth and in good shape.

A man who tried it, says that the best device for keeping cows away from the newly-planted corn is to tie cords of corn to poles placed at intervals around the field. For some reason, after they came and looked at the poles, they went away and stayed away.

The trouble with most of us is we allow our neighbors to do our thinking for us.

A bull without a ring in his nose attached to a leading stick is about as dangerous as a chunk of dynamite—you never can tell when they will break loose, and it doesn't pay to take chances with either.

The farmer gets 16 cents per pound for turkeys, while Mr. Chyman pays 20 cents for them at his grocers. The difference is the meat trust and the middleman.

THE TOMATOES USE.

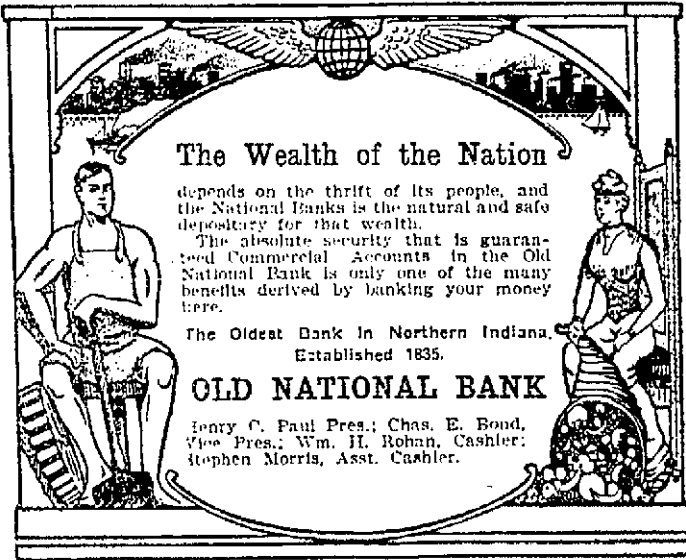

The tomato is a good thing. We eat it raw like an apple; we stew it as a vegetable; we fry it as a meat; we can it for winter use; and we make it into pickles, preserves, chow-chow, ketchup and lots of other things. It comes early in the summer and stays with us until frost, and a little care now will prolong its usefulness until December. We cover our vines with straw frosty nights, uncovering in the morning; or, the fruit may be gathered green and ripened in a tight box. Darkness is better than light for ripening them.

S.S.S. NATURE'S TONIC

Every one should take a tonic in the Spring; their systems require it. The blood has become thick and sluggish with the accumulations left in the system from the inactive, indoor life and from the heavy, rich foods of the Winter season. The blood, being in this unnatural and disordered condition, is unable to furnish the body with the increased amount of nourishment necessary for the more energetic life of Spring and Summer, and the system suffers from debility, weakness, nervousness, indigestion, loss of appetite, and many other unpleasant symptoms of a disordered blood circulation. When the system is in this run-down and disordered condition it is not safe to take unknown concoctions, sarsaparillas, compounds, etc., because they usually contain potash or some other equally strong and harmful mineral ingredient, which acts unfavorably and often dangerously on the depleted, weakened system at a time when it needs gentle and natural stimulation to throw off the impurities and recuperate its lost energy. S. S. S. is appropriately called Nature's tonic. It is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks from the great storehouse of forest and field, selected for their purifying and health-restoring qualities, and as it does not contain the slightest trace of mineral in any form it is perfectly safe for young or old. S. S. S. acts directly on the blood, ridding it of all impurities and poisons, and restoring the lost properties of rich, nutritive strength so that it is able to supply the system with the healthful, invigorating energy needed to pass the trying season of the year. Its action is the most pleasant, prompt and satisfactory of all tonics, and those who feel the need of such a medicine will do well to commence the use of S. S. S. at once. S. S. S. restores lost energy, relieves the tired, worn-out feeling, helps the appetite, aids digestion, and adds tone and vigor to the system. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Karlisle is rebuilding its business section, which was destroyed by the fire of April 27, quite rapidly, and before the close of the summer the new town will rise on the ashes of the old. Before the insurance adjusters had finished their work, men and boys began the work of tearing down the bare walls which had been left standing by the holocaust. Others with teams and wagons hauled away the bent and twisted machinery that had been left by the conflagration. The burned area is now completely cleaned up ready for the beginning of work on the new buildings which will rise on the sites of the old.

GAVE CHIEF A CHAIR.

Henry Hilbrecht Has Anniversary in Fire Department.

Completing his twenty-fifth year as chief of the Fort Wayne fire department Thursday, Henry Hilbrecht was presented a very handsome leather chair by the men of the department as a testimonial of esteem and in honor of the anniversary. The affair was wholly a surprise to Chief Hilbrecht, and when he discovered it was some time before his emotions would allow him to form words in which to express his deep appreciation.

Chief Hilbrecht has been at the head of the Fort Wayne fire department since May 9, 1882, but he had experience as a fireman prior to that time, for he began his career as a fire fighter in 1870, and was the first full paid engineer in the transition from the old volunteer department days. Mr. Hilbrecht is not only skilled as a fireman, but he is personally very popular.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys surely point to weak Kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine is cloudy, or if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can do and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell.

COMMITTEE WILL TAKE UP TROLLEY LINE MATTERS

Results of Subsidy Elections Under Consideration at Winona.

Results of the subsidy elections in Kosciusko, Whitley and Allen counties, held Tuesday, to determine the question of financial aid to the Winona-Fort Wayne Interurban project, were taken up today at a meeting of the finance committee of the Winona organization held at Winona. This committee is composed of Messrs. W. D. Frazier, of Warsaw; J. E. Boyer, of Rochester, and Mr. Sissons, of Chicago.

None of the Fort Wayne men who are interested in Winona were willing today to hazard an opinion as to the effect of the elections upon the project, for while the three Whitley county townships gave assent to the proposal to aid the road, the proposition was given a black eye in Lake township, Allen county, and in Jackson township, Kosciusko county. It is possible that the loss of the subsidy here may delay the construction of the road.

It has been understood that the Winona organization proposed to build the line without a cent of stock or bond issue above the amount necessary for actual construction. There is to be no "water" in the deal in any form. It has been estimated that the road will cost $1,000,000, and an eastern financial syndicate had agreed to advance this sum of money with bonds as security, contingent upon the Winona management guaranteeing the interest in advance for a period of two years. Accordingly subsidies were asked in a sum sufficient to meet this interest in advance, and the favorable results of the election in Whitley county take care of a little more than half the sum necessary.

ACCUSE MELLER OF BRIBERY.

Connecticut Legislators Charge Corruption Against New Haven Line.

Hartford, Conn., May 10.—Charges that legislative agents of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad had tried to corrupt and debauch members of the legislature were made in the senate yesterday afternoon during debate, which for character of language used was unprecedented in the state's legislative history.

The attack was directed against the New York, New Haven and Hartford road, President Meller of that system, the legislative agent of the corporation and Senator Thompson, chairman of the committee on railroads.

The most sensational speech was by Senator Stiles Judson, president pro tempore of the senate, who charged Edwin D. Robbins, counsel for the New Haven road, with attempting to corrupt members of the legislature. He said:

"There is not a newspaper correspondent in the state who has not known that during the past fortnight the board of education room in the capitol has been used in an attempt to debauch more than one member in the legislature. There is not a legislator who has not been aware that Mr. Robbins was sent here to do the work of a lobbyist and that the board of education room was being used like a spider's web to catch other stray flies. In three weeks he has issued and sent forth his ultimatum and conquered members of the general assembly."

FACE UNWASHED 15 YEARS.

Iowa Woman, with Complexion as Fair as Baby's, Shuns Soap and Water.

Webster City, Ia., May 10.—Miss Amanda Johnson of this city, one of the most beautiful women in northwest Iowa, has not washed her face for fifteen years. Though she is 59 years of age and still unwed, she is far from being an old maid. She is bright and cheerful and fun loving. Her face is as free from wrinkles and her complexion as faultless as the skin of a baby.

Fifteen years ago her complexion was far from beautiful. She came to the conclusion that soap and water were not good for her face and immediately set about to find some method whereby she might keep a clean countenance and yet a pretty one.

Miss Johnson does not intend to wash her face again for fifteen years, according to her own declaration.

MEET WAGE RAISE HALF WAY.

Landlords in New England Have Raised Rents.

Fall River, Mass., May 10.—With the recent advance in wages to mill operatives in this city, amounting practically to 10 per cent in the present state of the market for cotton goods, the landlords have started a movement to increase rents. For several months the population of the city has increased steadily with the mills calling for more operatives to keep pace with their business, and as a result the demand for tenements has become very great. Many of the operatives have been unable to secure houses here and have gone to New Bedford, Mass., going to and from work on the electric cars.

GIVES LIST OF PASS HOLDERS.

Union Pacific Shows Politicians Still Get Free Rides.

Lincoln, Neb., May 10.—Twenty-seven annuals are reported by the Union Pacific in its list of pass holders filed yesterday with the state railway commission. Vice President Mohler says the list contains passes outstanding April 30, excepting employees' passes and "other passes issued under contract and not regarded as free transportation." Names of these are not furnished. If the railroads are permitted to issue passes under contract without supplying names to the commission, members say, the law will be futile. Among the names in the list are such well known politicians as L. D. Richards, of Fremont; W. G. Whitmore, regent of the state university, and John Bratt, of North Platte.

RICHES TO ADOPTED DAUGHTER

Court Rules Elsiebeth Pabst Must Get Her Share of Big Estate.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 10.—By a decision of Judge Ludwig yesterday Miss Elsiebeth Pabst, adopted daughter of the late Captain Frederick Pabst, is given the entire income on her share of the estate valued at about $1,500,000, from Oct. 13, 1906, to Dec. 25, 1911, instead of only a sufficient amount to pay for her education and maintenance. At 6 per cent, the amount would be $450,000. The court decides also that it was the intention of Captain Pabst to treat Elsiebeth Pabst the same as the other heirs and determines that she is entitled to stock in the Pabst Brewing company of $1,000,000 book value.

MRS. R. J. BURDETTE INJURED.

Knocked Down by Policeman, Either by Accident or Design.

Los Angeles, May 10.—The police are making a rigid inquiry into a singular accident, or assault, for which a policeman is blamed, by which Mrs. Burdette, wife of Robert J. Burdette, was thrown down and her arm broken in three places. Mrs. Burdette was carrying a wicker basket of flowers when, as she passed between packing boxes at Los Angeles and First streets, a uniformed policeman, pushing through the narrow passageway, collided with her, knocking her down. She was lifted into her automobile, near by, and it developed she was badly injured.

of the residence of Dr. B. Stemen, on West Main street, while the young man was at dinner. Yesterday an employee of the Indiana Road Machine company, who had sustained injury to one of his fingers, appeared at the office of Dr. Stemen to have the wounded digit dressed and he rode there on the missing wheel. It developed that the man who stole the wheel had left it with his landlady in liquidation of a board bill and yesterday she loaned the wheel to an employee of the Indiana Road Machine company, the man who had the finger injured. The wheel was given to its rightful owner without hesitancy.

GETTING NEW PASSENGER ENGINES.

General Foreman Haberkorn, of the G. R. & I. shops at Grand Rapids, stopped off here this morning to see his relatives and visit the Pennsylvania shops, where he served an apprenticeship. Mr. Haberkorn has been in Pittsburg to inspect four passenger engines the Pittsburg Locomotive company is building for the G. R. & I. He says he found that the work of making the boilers had just commenced and stated that it would be some time before the locomotives would be completed and ready for delivery.

DEATH OF FLANK COMPTON.

Pennsylvania trainmen were shocked last night by news of the death of Frank Compton, who for several years was a comrade in railway work. He died at his home near South Whitley after an illness extending over a period of three years. Seven years ago Frank quit railway work and moved to the old homestead, where he was actively engaged in farming until taken sick. He was a brother to Passenger Conductor Jap Compton, of the Pennsylvania. Another brother, Harry Compton, was killed in an accident on the road two or three years ago.

NO DISTURBANCE AT BASS FOUNDRY TODAY

Strike Breakers Commence Work This Morning and Are Not Molested.

Quiet prevails at the Bass foundry today. The strike breakers from Cincinnati went to work this morning and the force was further increased by two moulders who came in from Columbus last night and applied for work, making a total of thirty new men, besides those who remained loyal to the company in the two departments affected by the strike.

The employees at the works were paid today, but none of the strikers appeared at the cashier's wicket until afternoon. Then they quietly walked up and received the envelopes containing their earnings for April. All worked two days in May, but so far as could be learned, none asked for the earnings covering that period, indicating that neither the company nor the strikers considered the relations of employer and employee completely severed.

The strikers held a meeting behind closed doors at 9 o'clock this morning, but nothing transpired of an unusual nature, so one of the men said. "We have an unbroken rank," he added, "and mean to fight to a finish."

Supt. Harry Fisher denies the report that the new men are not competent moulders. He says each came direct from a foundry to Fort Wayne and is doing the work assigned him in a satisfactory manner so far as observation goes at present. Mr. Fisher said that the statement concerning the wages of the moulders and apprentices at the Bass foundry were misleading, inasmuch as they gave the impression that wages there were not up to the standard of the other cities of the state. He said: "The rules of the moulders' union require an apprenticeship term of four years and then allow a year's service under instructions at a figure agreed to between the company and the interested party, and the men who have worked less than four years at the trade compose a pretty large share of the total number who are on strike."

Turning to the pay rolls Mr. Fisher pointed to the fact that there were nine men who received upwards of $3.30 per day, twenty-three who received over $3 per day and a greater number who received $2.95 per day in the rooms in which the strikers were employed.

It was reported on the street this morning that another party of strike breakers reached the city last night, but if they came, they failed to report at the works. Supt. Fisher did not care to talk on this subject further than to say that the experiences of the week indicate that it would not be a difficult matter to secure more if wanted.

No Call for Police.

There have been no calls for police protection during the day and the men out are apparently maintaining a peaceable attitude in conformity with the instructions of their leaders. Chief M. H. Ankenbruck, of the police department, said today: "I have had personal talks with the men and find them nice fellows. I advised them to keep their men from drinking and making trouble and they have promised me they would do it and they have not been disorderly. Men who get too much drunk are being fined by the union and I do not believe they will offer any violence while they are out and that they hope to win by fair means."

NEW RUN ON PENNSY.

Local Valparaiso to Chicago Put into Service.

Yesterday the Pennsylvania put on a local freight train to run between Valparaiso and Fifty-fifth street, Chicago, there being a demand for such a service. Engineer S. C. Keeler and Fireman R. Baker have been assigned to the run. They will make one round trip each day, the distance being about eighty miles.

WRECK NEAR SOUTH WHITLEY.

A fast west-bound freight on the Nickel Plate railroad was wrecked about midnight Wednesday three miles east of South Whitley near Frank Stone's farm, but fortunately none of the train crew were injured.

A tire came off one of the wheels on the engine causing it to jump the track. Fourteen cars followed but all maintained an upright position on the ties before stopping. Traffic was held up until Thursday noon, and a good many of the Nickel Plate trains were detained over the Vandalla road to Columbia City and in to Fort Wayne.

TOOK IN FIFTY-THREE APPLICANTS.

The Relief Union of the Fort Wayne Electric works added fifty-three names to its membership roll at the meeting last night and resolved to commence a campaign which shall result in a membership of 500 before the close of the year. The union last night also revised its by-laws so as to eliminate the total disability clause and make the time limit for paying benefits twenty instead of twelve weeks.

The subject tonight will be "Wise and Foolish Men." The Misses Watterson will pantomime the sacred song, "Abide With Me," and George Kohlmeier and Mrs. Lola Calvert will render a duet.
